RED TESTS SPUR U.S. DRIVE TO PUT JUPITER MISSILE INTO PRODUCTION

Move in American Army for Immediate Action as Result of Soviet Firing of Long-Range Weapons.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The now-established fact that the Russians have launched at least four long-range ballistic missiles has spurred a new United States Army drive to put its shorter-ranged but test-proven Jupiter weapon into production immediately.

United States intelligence recently put together and evaluated earlier intelligence reports that the Soviets started testing of inter-continental range ballistic missiles in June. They fired the huge rocket-powered metal tubes from European Russia eastward into a target area in northeast Siberia.

However, officials here question whether the Russians have yet developed an acceptable degree of accuracy and dependability in their long-range missiles.

The Russian launching of missiles believed to have a range of about 5000 miles, which is the goal of American efforts in this new field of warfare, followed an earlier and continuing test program of shorter-range weapons.

Russia's Activities.

Although military officials are prevented from speaking out openly about their own missile progress and about what the Russians are doing, it is known that the Soviets use an area east of the Caspian sea, north of Iran, to try out their lesser missiles. Estimates of the number of firings of missiles with ranges extending from 100 to 1200 miles by the Soviets this year go to about 100.

The United States Air Force has made one attempt to launch an inter-continental ballistic missile. That attempt, early this summer, ended abruptly after an Atlas weapon rose about 6000 feet over Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., then destroyed itself after the failure of a small valve caused the heavy rocket-powered vehicle to lose its balance and wobble in the air.

The Atlas is the farthest advanced of the two separate long-range ballistic missile programs sponsored by the Air Force. The Titan missile, started considerably later than Atlas, is about one year away from the flight testing stage.

The Air Force is known to have a second Atlas nearly ready for test launching.

Jupiter Tests Continue.

The Army, whose ballistic missile hopes were smothered last November when Secretary of Defense Wilson decided that the Air Force should have control of weapons traveling more than 200 miles, has continued to test its Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile.

Were it not for the Defense Department bar on official talk about new missiles, the Army would say today that it is ready to place Jupiter into production within 30 days.

The Army has tested every phase of the Jupiter and believes that it has eliminated the bugs which caused some earlier launching failures. On Wednesday, a Jupiter, complete in every detail except the nose cone, traveled more than 400 miles high and exactly 1500 miles out over the Atlantic.

Spurred by the statement by Secretary of the Army Brucker, Thursday, that the Jupiter is a "spectacular success," Army officers are known to be urging a decision to approve Jupiter for production.

Infection Delaying Transplant Of Girl's Kidney to Twin Sister

—United Press Telephoto.

SHOT IN A CHASE AFTER TRYING TO ATTACK WOMAN

Fugitive Seized by Deputies in Wild Pursuit on East Side — Seriously Wounded.

Howard W. Reid, a former mental patient, was in serious condition today in St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, with a gunshot wound of the chest received yesterday when he was shot by deputies after an attempted attack on a young farm wife in St. Clair county.

Reid, 31 years old, a Kansas City carpenter, led Deputy Sheriffs George Badgley and Harold Harriman on a wild automobile chase along U.S. Highway 50 into a residential section of Belleville and then into East St. Louis, before he was captured.

He fought the officers after he was struck by one of more than 10 shots fired in the 14-mile chase at speeds up to 100 miles an hour, the deputies reported.

Request Made for Food.

Reid appeared at a farm home east of O'Fallon about 2 p.m. He asked the farmer's wife, 24-year-old mother of five children and expecting a sixth child, for something to eat. When she opened the screen door, Reid lunged at her. She eluded him and ran screaming toward the nearby home of a relative.

An uncle of the woman and several of her children heard her screams and ran to her assistance, after Reid had knocked her down and attempted to attack her. Reid fled to his automobile and drove toward U.S. Highway 50, about four miles distant.

The uncle of the intended victim gave chase in a station wagon and obtained Reid's automobile license number. He telephoned the number to Chief of Police James Tiley at O'Fallon. Tiley relayed the information to the sheriff's office in Belleville, and the license number and a report of the attempted attack were broadcast over the sheriff's radio net.

Badgley and Harriman received the report when driving on U.S. 50 near Belleville. They turned toward O'Fallon. They had gone only a short distance when a careening automobile approached in the wrong lane, forcing them into a filling station. Other machines also were forced off the highway by the wild driver, the deputies reported.

Shots Fired at Auto.

The 14-mile chase followed, with Harriman driving the police car and Badgley firing his revolver at the speeding machine when it was possible to shoot without hitting bystanders.

At Eighty-seventh street, near East St. Louis, a bullet punctured a tire on Reid's machine, but he continued on to Thirty-seventh street. There a second tire was hit and the machine went out of control and struck a parked car.

Jumping out of his car, Reid fled on foot, pursued by the two officers. Badgley said he fired at the fugitive after the latter pulled an object from his pocket, as if he had a weapon.

Reid, struck by the bullet,

Court in Boston Gives Permission for Rare Operation on Young Missourian.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BOSTON, Aug. 31—An infection has complicated the condition of 14-year-old Dolores Huskey of DeSoto, Mo., so that surgeons today could not attempt to transplant a healthy kidney from her twin sister, Doris.

The infection is slight, but the girl's condition is so poor that surgery cannot be undertaken now, it was reported at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Doctors said every effort was being made to improve her condition "just a little" to permit the operation, which may be attempted early next week.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court gave permission for the operation yesterday. Being a minor, Doris is legally incompetent to authorize removal of one of her healthy kidneys, so court approval was necessary.

Twin's Statement to Court.

"I would not be able to live with myself if I couldn't give her this kidney," Doris told Justice Arthur E. Whittemore. "I know my sister will die if the operation is not performed."

Judge Whittemore immediately gave consent, issuing a decree which said:

"The physicians may operate upon Doris Huskey by removing one of her kidneys and transplanting it into the body of her twin sister without incurring any civil liability or criminal prosecution, if such operation is conducted in the proper manner and without negligence."

Surgeons had intended to operate yesterday, but the infection made the condition of Dolores worse. The girl was given a blood transfusion in an effort to strengthen her.

Her blood is of the B-RH negative type, which is one of the rarer types. The St. Louis Red Cross chapter, whose regional blood program takes in DeSoto, Mo., arranged to replace any amount of blood needed.

Damaged by Illness.

The twins are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Huskey, who live on a farm about 40 miles south of St. Louis. Both of Dolores's kidneys were damaged beyond repair by nephritis, a disease contracted about four months ago.

She was given a chance only because a team of Boston surgeons has developed a technique for transplanting a kidney from one identical twin to another. The operation has been successfully performed only four times.

The Huskey twins and their parents flew from St. Louis to Boston on Aug. 22 in a hospital plane provided by Scott Air Force Base. Tests involving blood comparison and grafting of patches of skin from one sister to the other confirmed findings made at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis that the girls are identical and not fraternal twins.

BRITISH AIRLINER REPORTED FIRED ON BY YEMENITES

ADEN, Aug. 31 (UP)—The British-owned airline that serves this Arabian coast colony said today Yemenite raiders fired on one of its planes yesterday when it passed near the border of the Arab state.

Two bullets hit the plane, one passing through the tail and the other striking the instrument panel in the cockpit. The pilot was slightly injured by flying glass.

BIG ATOMIC SHOT FIRED IN MOST ELABORATE TEST OF 1957 SERIES

Twice as Powerful as Hiroshima Bomb — 900 Troops, Including 4 Women, Watch Explosion.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Aug. 31 (AP)—An atom bomb twice as powerful as the one that shattered Hiroshima exploded today with a blinding blue light visible for hundreds of miles throughout the West.

Within a few minutes after the blast, 40 helicopters swooped in to pick up 900 infantrymen huddled 8500 yards from the blast site for post-shot assault maneuvers. Four women were in the trenches—two nurses and two WAC observers.

An infantry platoon from Canada took part in the exercises—the first time any troops other than those from the United States have participated in such maneuvers. Radiation detection crews from Canada have been active in the tests since 1955.

Fifteenth in Current Series.

The shot, code-named "Smoky," was the fifteenth in the current test series being conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission. (The United Press said it was the second largest of this series.) It was exploded from a 700-foot tower at 5:30 a.m. after a 30-minute delay to permit a final check of wind conditions. (The U.P. said the test had been postponed three times previously because of fallout danger and unfavorable wind conditions.)

Just before shot time it was announced that the power yield of the device was twice nominal—nominal being the equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT, which was the power of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

The tower holding the bomb was vaporized by the tremendous explosion, which set grass and trees more than two miles away on fire and was felt as a sharp blow by observers on News Nob, 14 miles from the blast site.

More impressive to witnesses, however, was the brilliant blue flash that accompanied the detonation. The eerie light held for several seconds before darkness closed in again.

The dazzling light was seen clearly in San Francisco, more than 400 miles away, where it penetrated a heavy overcast to give early risers an awesome glimpse of its power.

Ionization of Nitrogen.

Scientists said the blue light was caused by the ionization of nitrogen surrounding the fireball and was intensified because of the darkness.

The mushroom cloud boiled up to 35,000 feet before breaking up. Winds varied considerably in force and direction in the upper air, it was reported, leading test officials to predict that fallout would be widely dispersed.

The troops were originally scheduled to be only 4500 yards from ground zero, but were moved to trenches 8500 yards away when last-minute predictions were for heavy fallout in the closer area.

In addition to the military maneuvers, civil defense and scientific tests were conducted during and after the blast.

Three hundred mice were imprisoned in French and German-designed blast shelters constructed in the desert at varying ranges from the 700-foot tower.

Fire Chiefs Test Methods.

A contingent of fire chiefs were on hand to test decontamination procedures. Lifelike dummies were exposed to the blast to test the effects of shock waves on human beings.

Psychological and sociological studies of a force of picked men from the Eighty-second Airborne Division, Fort Bragg, N.C., were canceled when the men were moved from the advance positions back to the nob at a greater distance.

Participating in Task Force Warrior were the First Battle Group, Twelfth Infantry, Fourth Infantry Division, Fort Lewis, Wash., and the second platoon, first battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, from Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

The helicopters used were from the Eighty-fifth Aviation Battalion, Fort Bragg, and Fort Benning, Ga.

AIR FORCE GLOBEMASTER CRASHES; 5 DEAD, 10 HURT

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 31 (AP)—An Air Force C-124 Globemaster crashed and burned here early today, killing five airmen and injuring 10 others.

None of the identified dead was from the St. Louis area.

The huge four-engine military transport, attached to the First Strategic Squadron, Biggs Air Force Base here, was making an instrument landing at El Paso International Airport when it crashed at 1:45 a.m. during a heavy rain. The plane, which burst into flames, was destroyed.

Officers at Biggs base said the plane was returning from a flight from Hunter Air Force Base at Savannah, Ga.

BROWNELL GIVES HINT EISENHOWER WILL APPROVE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL

Says, After White House Visit, Measure Will Go a Long Way Toward Safeguarding Voting Rights.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The civil rights bill now on President Eisenhower's desk may turn out to be more effective than some of its critics would concede previously.

That appeared today to be the sentiment of some Administration spokesmen as well as some members of Congress.

Attorney General Herbert Brownell, who will have the chief administrative responsibility if President Eisenhower signs the bill as expected, said after a White House visit yesterday the measure would go a long way toward safeguarding voting rights.

Brownell's statement indicated acceptance of the measure by Mr. Eisenhower, with a possible call for action by Congress in the next session to broaden its terms to include enforcement of other civil rights.

In announcing yesterday he will not be a candidate for the G.O.P. nomination for Governor of New York, Brownell indicated he expects to be around to enforce the bill, if it is signed.

Prediction by Russell.

Senator Richard Russell (Dem.), Georgia, who headed the band of Southern Senators who fought the measure to the last, said he was sure that Brownell would be "constantly pressed" by Vice President Richard Nixon to use the full powers he is given under the measure against the South.

Russell said the bill is likely to result in "forcing the registration of a large number of Negroes who in fact cannot meet the qualifications prescribed for all electors under the laws of some states."

As it went to the President, the bill would authorize the Attorney General to bring federal court injunctions suits to prevent interference or threatened interference with voting rights.

If defendants in such suits were found guilty of criminal contempt by a judge, they could demand a new trial by jury if the judge had levied a fine of more than $300 or sentenced the defendant to jail for more than 45 days.

Criminal contempt generally involves disobedience of a court's order beyond the time in which obedience would render the order effective. The bill also provides for service by Negroes on federal court juries, irrespective of state laws.

'Promises Some Progress.'

Republican Senate minority leader William F. Knowland of California said in a summation of congressional accomplishments that the measure "promises some progress in the long struggle for equality and elimination of race and color discriminations in American life."

He said the bill "provides for several things of great value in dealing with civil rights cases," including the establishment of a six-member commission to investigate the denial of voting rights and other matters.

While Russell foresaw plaguing consequences for the South in the measure, he said the Dixie Senators's success in eliminating some orginal provisions for the enforcement of school integration and other civil rights opinions was "great victory."

Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas, said that while the bill was distasteful to him it its passage "may be the beginning of a new era of understnding and lessening of the controversy and bitterness that has plagued us on this subject."

First in 82 Years.

Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said if Congress hadn't done anything else, its passage of the civil rights bill "would entitle it to a place in history."

"I realize that honorable men disagree over the merits of the measure," he said. "But no one can argue that it is meaningless and no one can avoid the fact that it was the first such measure passed by Congress in 82 years."

A sidelight to the civil rights fight was a one-man filibuster against the bill by Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem.), South Carolina, who was criticized for the action by some other Southerners. Thurmond spoke for 24 hours and 19 minutes.

In a statement last night, he said that at a meeting of Southerners last Saturday it was agreed "that each Senator was on his own to oppose the bill as best he could. From the beginning I made up my mind that it was my duty to oppose the bill strongly."

GAMBLER HAS LOT OF CHEEK

NEWARK, N.J., Aug. 31 (AP)—"Don't bother me, I got a toothache," James W. Mitchell mumbled, his cheek swollen.

Police said they pried open the 22-year-old man's mouth and 14 lottery slips dropped out. Chief Magistrate Nicholas Castellano fined him $100 yesterday and sentenced him to 10 days in jail.

TRAFFIC DEATHS TOTAL 75 AT START OF HOLIDAY PERIOD

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 (AP)—Seventy-five persons were killed in traffic accidents in the first few hours of the long Labor day weekend. Eleven fatalities from miscellaneous causes and two drownings brought the death total to 88.

The National Safety Council has estimated that before the 78-hour holiday period is over 420 persons will die in traffic accidents. The tabulation period began at 6 p.m. Friday and will run through midnight Monday.

The highway traffic toll in the first few hours was about four deaths an hour—if this rate continues the final total would be below the Safety Council's estimate. Safety experts point out that the real danger period comes at the end of a holiday when drivers are hurrying homeward.

The Associated Press, in a test period from 6 p.m., Friday, Aug. 16 to midnight Monday, Aug. 19—78 hours—recorded 398 fatalities.

TRUMAN FAVORS A LIMBER SWITCH AS TEACHING AID

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP)—The boys and girls would behave better if their teachers were allowed to switch them, says Harry S. Truman.

That's what the former President told 1000 school teachers at a meeting here yesterday. He elaborated: "About a half-century ago Dr. Maria Montessori, a great Italian psychiatrist, conceived the idea of letting kids do as they please to develop character.

"The Montessori plan, along with lazy parents, baby sitters and a shortage of switches, has made the teacher's role a hard one and our educational system a coddling process.

"My first-grade teacher opened school with a prayer. She also kept a good limber switch in the corner, and if a smart alec did not behave, he felt that switch where it did the most good."

RECORD THURMOND FILIBUSTER COST TAXPAYERS $6468

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (UP) — Senator Strom Thurmond's record filibuster against the compromise civil rights bill cost the American taxpayers more than $6468.

The South Carolina Democrat's nearly 25-hour filibuster this week filled 84 pages of the Congressional Record. At about $77 a page that comes to about $6468.

The figure does not include the necessary temporary employment of several extra shorthand reporters and several extra transcribers.

MOLOTOV GOING TO MONGOLIA AS MINOR DIPLOMAT

Purged Soviet Leader Will Be Ambassador to Nation of Tent-Dwelling Horsemen.

MOSCOW, Aug. 31 (AP)—V. M. Molotov, who won international prominence as chief of all Soviet diplomats, was named today to the minor diplomatic post of ambassador to Outer Mongolia.

The announcement was the second assignment of a loser in the recent Kremlin shakeup by Nikita Khrushchev. The Communist party chief earlier sent former Premier Georgi Malenkov to run a power station in remote Kazakhstan, just west of Mongolia.

Molotov's appointment was printed in the government newspaper Izvestia.

As ambassador to the Mongolian People's Republic, Molotov technically will handle Russian foreign relations with a nation of somewhat more than 1,000,000 people. A majority of the population are tent-dwelling horsemen, little advanced from the days when Genghis Khan set forth from Mongolia to scourge the civilized world.

Russia has been tryiing to get Mongolia into the United Nations.

Molotov, 67 years old, is reported in poor health. He is one of the few remaining old Bolshevik companions of Stalin. His record includes the Premier's post from 1930 to 1941 and Foreign Minister most of the time from 1939 to 1953.

After Stalin died in 1953 Molotov began to slip from power. He was Minister of State Control when the July turnover came.

Molotov and Malenkov lost their Communist party and government jobs after Khrushchev accused them of plotting against his leadership. Ousted also were First Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich and Dmitri Shepilov, Foreign Minister after Molotov and ex-editor of Pravda.

The government said the fallen leaders would be used "according to their professional abilities."

There was a report that Kaganovich, long Russia's top economic expert and industrial trouble-shooter, has been assigned to run a cement factory in the Urals. There has been no word on a new job for Shepilov.

Diplomats in London regard Molotov's assignment as a political joke aimed at keeping him away from Moscow contacts. The job was considered as having little importance since diplomatic relations betweeen Russia and Outer Mongolia are a mere formality.

Midnight Wedding on 'Owl' Train Climaxes Commuters' Romance

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

SOUTH AMBOY, N.J., Aug. 31 (AP)—Two late-at-night railroad commuters were married aboard a train at South Amboy early today.

This community where Pennsylvania trains stop to change locomotives took on a festive air in the post-midnight hours as 50 persons turned out at the station for the wedding.

Mayor Joseph Charmello performed the ceremony, marrying June Hand, 37 years old, and Thomas la Pare, 62, who both work nights in the Newark area and live on the North Jersey shore. Best man was Edward T. Walters of the Bronx, conductor of the Owl which leaves Penn Station, New York, at 12:35 a.m.

For this trip, there was a special car for the bridal party, decorated with streamers and white paper bells. Some passengers had horns and rice. The Progressive Fire Co. of South Amboy brought its emergency truck to the station and set up four floodlights.

La Pare and his bride have been riding the train for several years. He is a roundhouse foreman for the Jersey Central railroad and lives at Long Branch. She works for RCA in Harrison and has lived at Bradley Beach.

"We just love trains," Miss Hand said as the couple boarded the owl in Newark. "We fell in love on trains after a railroad engineer introduced us."

MANY PROBLEMS FACE ELECTION YEAR'S SESSION STARTING JAN. 7

Eight-Month Meeting Began With Passage of Mideast Doctrine and Ended With Civil Rights Law.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Members of Congress were streaming home today to get the verdict on their 1957 labors, and rest up for what probably will be a rough session when they reassemble Jan. 7, 1958.

The first session of the Eighty-fifth Congress closed down late yesterday with a historic civil rights bill passed, but with much of President Eisenhower's program put aside until next year.

Final adjournment came at 3:57 p.m. in the House and 4:22 p.m. in the Senate after the longest congressional session since 1951, during the Korean war.

Mr. Eisenhower last week expressed himself as "tremendously disappointed" with this first congressional session of his second term.

But the weary Senators and Representatives could look back on an eight-month session that began with enactment of the Eisenhower Middle East Doctrine and was climaxed by passage of the first civil rights bill in more than 80 years.

In their 1958 election year session, they will be faced with a wide variety of major problems, many of them postponed from this year.

Awaiting Action.

These will include tax relief, extension of the reciprocal trade agreements act, natural gas regulation, control of union welfare and pension funds, liberalization of the social security laws, farm relief, and extension of the public housing program.

Democratic leaders disagreed with Mr. Eisenhower's expression of disappointment. Senate Democratic Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said he believed on reflection the President "will find that the record of this Congress was as fine as any he can recall and that it passed more substantial bills than the first session in his first Administration."

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts called it "one of the greatest Congresses this country has ever had."

Senate Republican Minority Leader William F. Knowland of California said the Congress had left untouched much of the Eisenhower program, even though the President won an overwhelming indorsement at the polls last November.

Budget-Cutting.

The 1957 session rang with cries of economy and budget-cutting, touched off last January by the President's submission of a record peacetime spending budget of $71,800,000,000.

The economy drive faltered a bit as the session dragged on but then the Administration itself took over with some sharp whacks at its own spending plans in the last month. These hit particularly at proposed outlays of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Congress ended up cutting $4,900,000,000 off Mr. Eisenhower's appropriations requests, the largest reduction of any year since 1953.

Another theme sounded for the last seven months developed out of the steady upward trend in interest rates and the cost of living. Democrats bitterly attacked what they called Administration tight money policies, saying they contributed to the inflation.

Republicans charged that Democratic remedies would make the inflation worse, and insisted that the continued business boom showed their economic policies generally were sound.

Civil Rights Dispute.

The session was lengthened by the month of Senate debate on the bitterly disputed civil rights bill, plus two weeks of deadlock in the House once the Senate sent the measure back there.

But in the end this bill, in weaker form than the Administration desired, was sent on to the White House without the southern filibuster in the Senate that Long has threatened any legislation in this field.

Although there was no organized filibuster, Senator Strom Thurmond (Dem.), South Carolina, set a new record for extended Senate speeches, speaking for 24 hours and 19 minutes — beginning last Wednesday at 8:54 p.m. — against the bill. The speech resulted in several Senators pledging a new effort next Jan-

U.S. PREPARING FOR A SHOWDOWN WITH RUSSIA ON DISARMAMENT

Stassen Said to Expect 'Official' Reply From Moscow Next Week — Not All Officials Share His Optimism.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (UP)—The United States is getting ready for an early showdown meeting with the Soviet Union on disarmament prospects, officials said today.

Harold E. Stassen, top American disarmament adviser, was reported to believe that the "official" Moscow answer to the West's 11-point disarmament plan may be forthcoming Tuesday or Wednesday.

Stassen flew home from the London disarmament meeting after Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin sharply attacked the West's "package" disarmament move. Stassen conferred at the White House with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles shortly after arriving yesterday.

Young Stassen's Marriage.

He planned to go to Charlottesville, Va., today to attend the wedding of his son, Glen. But he tentatively scheduled to meet with Dulles on Monday prior to returning to London. The disarmament subcommittee meets there Tuesday afternoon.

United States officials said if Moscow shows any interest in Western proposals, the disarmament negotiations will continue or be recessed temporarily. They said if Moscow follows up its recent tough anti-disarmament talks, the London talks might adjourn for months.

Stassen refused to give up hope despite Zorin's almost defiant attitude at the last London meeting on Thursday. On his arrival here Stassen said he still believes the Soviets are negotiating seriously on disarmament. He preferred to regard Zorin's remarks as "preliminary" pending further reaction next week after the Kremlin has studied the Western plan.

Stassen's somewhat optimistic view is by no means unanimous in Washington. Many officials believe the Soviets are trying to end the disarmament talks as soon as they can find a way to do so gracefully. This would fit in with a general hardening of the Soviet foreign policy line on German, Middle Eastern and other East-West issues in addition to disarmament.

Humphrey's Opinion.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, chairman of the Senate Disarmament subcommittee, told the Senate before it adjourned that the negotiations "appear to be moving rapidly to an unsuccessful conclusion."

Unless the Russians show sincerity in London, the Senator suggested, the West should shift the talks to the U.N. General Assembly session opening in New York Sept. 17.

"It seems clear," he said, "that for the time being at least, the Soviets have no intention of using the disarmament talks for anything but propaganda."

At the Thursday meeting in London, the West proposed its 11-point package plan for a first-step disarmament treaty. The plan provides for a 24-month halt in nuclear testing, a parallel agreement to halt production of nuclear weapon materials, a start on reducing arms and armed forces, and development of a warning system against surprise attack.

COLUMBIA STUDIO SUSPENDS FILM ACTRESS KIM NOVAK

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 31 (AP) — Columbia yesterday announced suspension of actress Kim Novak, one of the studio's most valuable properties, for breach of contract.

The studio said it was forced to take the action when she informed the studio that unless immediate changes were made in her contract she would not report to Paramount next week for a forthcoming film there.

Congress

uary to make it easier to limit debate:

Passage of the civil rights measure was regarded as the No. 1 accomplishment of the session, with several members of Congress arguing it was a reasonably strong bill despite the amendments in the Senate.

Voting Rights Only.

One of these stripped from the bill a section providing for federal injunctions to enforce a wide variety of civil rights, leaving in the bill this power only for voting rights.

Another of the amendments softened the voting rights section by providing for jury trials in criminal contempt cases growing out of it. Many authorities argued that the great bulk of voting rights cases could be handled through the civil contempt procedure without jury trials.

The final deadlock on the bill was broken when leaders of both parties in both branches agreed on a modification of the jury trial amendment so that judges could try even the criminal contempt voting rights cases without juries if only minor punishment were involved.

The other chief provisions left intact in the bill set up a new civil rights division in the Department of Justice and established a six-member commission with subpena powers to make a two-year study of civil rights violations.

Other Accomplishments.

Other principal accomplishments of the session:

Passage of the Eisenhower Doctrine resolution, authorizing the President to act to prevent Communist domination of any nation in the Middle East if the country asks for American help.

Enactment of a housing bill authorizing $1,900,000,000 in new spending on a variety of housing porgrams and lowering the minimum down payment requirements on FHA-insured loans. The authorization was more than a billion dollars above the President's request.

Extension for 15 months of the 52 per cent corporation income tax rate and a number of excise levies to preserve three billion dollars of annual revenue.

Granting of an additional one billion dollars for the program of disposal of surplus farm products abroad, and extension of the law governing it for one year.

Ratification of the treaty providing for American membership in the new international atomic energy agency inspired by Mr. Eisenhower's 1953 atoms-for-peace speech. Also, the enactment of legis-Also, the enactment of legislation governing United States participation in the agency; tied to this was the Bricker amendment requiring congressional approval of future allotments of nuclear materials to the agency.

Extension of the Small Business Administration to July 31, 1958, with an increase in its lending authority of $155,000,000.

Passage of a bill to protect the integrity of FBI files, while guaranteeing defendants the right to see relevant portions of statements by prosecution witnesses in the files.

No Final Action.

These were major recommendations of the President on which Congress did not act at all or failed to complete action:

A one-and-one-half billion dollar, five-year program of grants to states for school construction. Beaten by five votes in the House.

A $521,000,000 increase in postal rates. This passed the House, but did not clear a Senate committee.

Statehood for Alaska and Hawaii. These bills received committee consideration and are expected to be voted on early in the 1958 session.

Extension of minimum wage law coverage to an additional 2,500,000 persons. This bogged down because Democrats felt it did not go far enough but could not agree on a substitute.

Membership in the organization for Trade Co-operation, an international agency set up to boost world trade.

Creation of a presidential commission to investigate and recommend changes in fiscal and monetary policies. Congress rejected this, but the Senate Finance Committee launched a comprehensive inquiry of its own.

A program to give a variety of federal aids to distressed areas with high unemployment. Democrats contended the President's proposals did not go far enough.

Although Congress cut $4,900,000,000 off Mr. Eisenhower's appropriations requests, the $67,100,000,000 in appropriations voted was the biggest total for any year of the Eisenhower Administration.

The reductions included $2,368,000,000 in the request for new Defense Department money and more than one billion dollars in what the President originally asked for foreign aid.

However, it was certain that the cuts in appropriations would not be reflected in anything like comparable reductions in the $71,800,000,000 spending budget sent up by the President for the current fiscal year.

MRS. EISENHOWER GOES HOME, FEELS 'PRETTY GOOD'

©New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to the White House yesterday afternoon after a 24-day stay in Walter Reed Army Medical Center following surgery.

She was smiling broadly but appeared thinner as she left the hospital with the President and Dr. Humbert Riva, the gynecologist who performed the operation. She told a reporter that she felt "pretty good."

With her return and the subsequent adjournment of Congress, the Eisenhowers began actively to plan their vacation at Newport, R.I. The expectation is that they will fly there about mid-week, for a stay of three weeks to a month.

The President plans to spend Saturday and Sunday at the White House with Mrs. Eisenhower.

He took a recess from signing minor bills to play a round of golf. He canceled plans to spend Labor Day at his Gettysburg (Pa.) farm, and will remain at the White House with Mrs. Eisenhower.

MRS. ROOSEVELT LEAVES U.S. ON WAY TO RUSSIA

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt left Idlewild airport yesterday on a Pan American World Airways plane for Frankfurt on the way to Moscow, and said she would like to go to Red China.

She said she "always wanted to go" to China and would go if she obtained a visa.

Mrs. Roosevelt is visiting Russia as a journalist, she said, and will be there about a month. She said she hopes to see top government officials in Moscow.

She said she was "very sorry" for the 41 American youths who defied a United Stt̃es bar and went from Russia to Red China after a youth festival.

"It is too bad for them," she said. "I wish the State Department knew more about handling young people."

IDEA OF GLOBAL MISSILE OLD STUFF TO RUSSIANS

LONDON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that the idea for an intercontinental ballistic missle was thought up by a Russian inventor who was born 100 years ago.

The broadcast said the Soviet Union's Academy of Science had decided to hold a celebration to observe the 100th birthday of the inventor, Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, on Sept. 17.

"A number of very important discoveries in aerodynamics, rocket techniques and the theory of space travel are linked with the name of Tsiolkovsky," the broadcast added. "Now his ideas have been brilliantly put into practice by Soviet engineers in building an intercontinental ballistic rocket."

Senator Chavez Collapses.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP) — Senator Dennis Chavez (Dem.), New Mexico, collapsed while attempting a 10-block walk in 91-degree heat yesterday, relatives said. Dennis Chavez Jr., son of the 69-year-old Senator, said Chavez undertook the walk after his taxicab broke down about 10 blocks from home. He was taken by ambulance to a hospital, where he was reported resting comfortably today.

PROXMIRE LANDS FINE COMMITTEE SEATS, FREE TRIP

New Wisconsin Senator Assigned to Three Posts and Junket to Germany.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—Wisconsin's new Democratic Senator William Proxmire landed three good committee assignments yesterday and a free trip to Germany.

He made his maiden speech, ignoring an old and seldom respected Senate tradition that a freshman Senator keep silent.

Proxmire, who was elected Tuesday and officially sworn in Thursday, thanked Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson (Dem.), Texas, and Democratic Senators who gave up committee assignments to make room for him.

He also served notice that he still hopes to win a place on the Senate Agriculture Committee to speak there for Wisconsin's dairy farmers.

Johnson announced he was appointing Proxmire as one of two Democratic Senators who will go to West Germany later this fall on invitation of the West German parliament.

Four Senators, two from each party, will get the expense-paid trip and Johnson said he would name a senior Democrat later.

Earlier, three Democratic colleagues gave up their own places on important Senate committees to make them available to Proxmire.

Johnson got Senate approval of Proxmire's assignment to the Banking and Currency, Post Office and Civil Service and the Small Business Committees.

Senator Frank J. Lausche (Dem.), Ohio, gave up a seat on the Banking Committee, Senator Joseph S. Clark (Dem.), Pennsylvania, on the Post Office Committee, and Senator A. S. Mike Monroney (Dem.), Oklahoma, on the Small Business Committee to make room for Proxmire.

Johnson asked Chairman Allen Ellender (Dem.), Louisiana, of the Senate Agriculture Committee to keep Proxmire in mind for membership on that group when a Democratic vacancy becomes available, to take advantage of what he called Proxmire's "constructive" interest in farm bills.

Although Proxmire's election increased the Senate Democratic majority by one, it cost them two committee seat assignments because of a quirk in Senate rules.

These give the majority party an advantage of at least one seat on each of the 16 standing committees. When the party division is only two or 49 to 47, it is necessary to award the majority several extra seats to assure control and chairmanship of all committees.

Proxmire's election changed the party division to 50 to 46 and so the Democrats lost two of these extra committee places.

Proxmire was elected to fill out the term of the late Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, which expires next year.

TYPHOON SKIRTS IWO JIMA; DAMAGE MINOR, NONE KILLED

TOKYO, Aug. 31 (AP)—A typhoon roared past Iwo Jima, American island outpost, early today but there were no deaths or major damage from 100-mile winds, the Air Force said tonight.

Minor damage to military installations on Iwo was caused by more than seven inches of rain. Radio contact with the island, broken off at 9 p.m. yesterady, was established again early today.

The blackout caused some concern for the 400 Americans stationed there. Air Force weathermen reported the typhoon was centered tonight about 500 miles south of Tokyo.

ASIAN FLU SHOTS RELEASED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (UP)—The United States Public Health Service yesterday released another 1,527,865 shots of Asian influenza vaccine, most of it for the armed forces.

This brings to 2,677,475 the number of doses released since the vaccine first became available on Aug. 12. Of the new supply, 1,350,000 doses are being shipped to the Defense Department for use of the armed forces. The remainder will be distributed for civilian use.

MALAYA GAINS INDEPENDENCE FROM BRITAIN

9 States and 2 Settlements Join Commonwealth — Elected King Will Govern.

KUALA LUMPUR, Aug. 31 (AP)—The nine princely states and two settlements of Malaya emerged from British paramount rule today and became a single sovereign nation.

But the world-famous peninsular producer of tin and rubber retained old ties by becoming a member of the British-led Commonwealth of nations. Malaya is expected to be voted into the United Nations as its eighty-second member in September. The country will have an elected king at the outset.

The crown colony of Singapore at the tip of the peninsula remains a British possession—one of the last in Asia—in a delicate political balancing act.

If Singapore had been joined to the Malay Federation, people of Chinese origin—many of them oriented toward Red China or biding their time watchfully—would form a majority.

The King elected recently by his peers to reign for five years is Tuanku Sir Abdul Rahman, former principal chief of Negri Sembilan state. Tuanku is his Malayan title of prince. He was knighted by the British long ago in the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

The form of the present Malayan nation emerged in 1948 in the surge of nationalism set off by the liberation of the Indian sub-continent from British rule in mid-August of 1947.

There had been regional federations of the Malay princes, but the 1948 union brought together all the nine states and the coastal settlements of Penang and Malacca. As the paramount power, Britain had held a veto over all princely acts.

Today in celebrating the transition from 170 years of British rule to voluntary partnership with Britian and the Commonwealth, the Union Jack was hauled down ceremonially to salute the end of foreign rule.

Up went the new Malayan flag. It is of the same general design as the American flag, with 11 red and white stripes and a yellow star and crescent on a blue field.

The Malay word merdeka (freedom) was chorused many times by 30,000 Malayans massed on a parade ground that normally serves as a cricket pitch and is ringed by white minareted buildings in Arab-Moorish style. Many Malays are Moslems.

The Duke of Gloucester was entrusted by Queen Elizabeth II with the task of transferring power and the constitutional instrument to Prime Minister Abdul Rahman (no relation to the elected King).

Rahman accepted the new status last night with praise for the old British rule.

The 55-year-old son of a Sultan thanked the British — who politely stayed away from the Malayans' triumphal ceremonies —for "a good administration forged and tempered to perfection by successive British administrations."

Official recognition for the new nation came quickly.

Sixty-one official foreign guests are here for the independence ceremonies, including Under secretary of State Christian Herter, representing the United States.

The Peiping radio broadcast Red China's recognition of the nation with official congratulations and hope for friendly relations. Prime Ministers Nehru of India and Suhrawardy of Pakistan sent messages of friendship.

Mussolini's Body Is Buried As Fascist Diehards Salute

Blackshirts Swear to Follow Il Duce's Teachings— Coffin Hidden in Monastery for 11 Years.

PREDAPPIO, Italy, Aug. 31 (AP)—The body of Benito Mussolini was buried quietly today as black-shirted Fascist diehards saluted with a pledge to remain loyal to the teachings of Il Duce.

The body was brought home yesterday to the family tomb in this hillside village from which the blacksmith's son went to become a dictator.

A zinc-lined crate hidden behind the altar of a rural Capuchin monastery at Cerro Maggiore, 15 miles northwest of Milan, yielded the answer to the 11-year-old question of what became of Mussolini's body. The government had hidden it to prevent his followers from using the body as an emotional rallying point for a Fascist revival.

The government acceded to the widow's repeated requests for Il Duce's burial in the family tomb here because the political climate in Italy has changed. The ashes of his father, mother and son, Bruno, killed in a flying accident during the war, are there.

About 500 persons attended the simple rites. Several hundred wore the Fascist black shirts in which Mussolini's strongarm men marched on Rome in 1922 to establish his 21-year-long dictatorship.

Raising their black banners and kneeling before the tomb with the old stiff-arm salute, they pledged aloud: "We swear that we will continue to follow the teachings of Il Duce."

One of the banners read in Italian: "Who surrenders is a coward."

The 70-year-old peasant-born Donna Rachele dropped sobbing to her knees and kissed the coffin. She said: "I want the world to know that I was kept away from the body of my husband for 11 years." Her son, Romano Mussolini, a Milan jazz musician, stood beside her.

Flowers were piled high inside and outside the vault.

Mussolini and his mistress, Clara Petacci, were executed by partisans in the closing days of World War II. The bodies were stolen from unmarked graves but recovered by the government, which hid Mussolini's corpse amid sacred parchments behind the monastery altar.

Only Father Carlo, a superior of the Capuchin order who brought the remains here, and Father Romano, another superior, knew what was in the crate, Father Carlo said.

Part of Mussolini's brain, kept in a separate jar, was brought here with the body. Other pieces of the brain had been turned over to scientists previously for study.

In Washington, the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology reported that an examination in 1945 of slivers of Mussolini's brain tissue showed no evidence of disease, scarring or inflamation.

OFFICIAL RESIGNS, SHOWED SEX FILM

Delinquency Expert Quits Memphis Post Over Stag Party Movies.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 31 (AP)—The former chief counsel of the Kefauver subcommittee on juvenile delinquency resigned his city job last night shortly after admitting he showed pornographic sex movies at Memphis parties.

James H. Bobo, appointed administrative assistant to Mayor Edmund Orgill after his subcommittee work, said his handling of the illegal films was a serious mistake in judgment.

Bobo, 35 years old, said he got the stag party reels from some which were used as evidence or exhibits during the juvenile delinquency hearings presided over by Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee.

(The United Press quoted Bobo as saying there were so many films that he did not remember exactly where they came from. He said some of the films the committee seized came from Missouri.)

He said he showed the films in Memphis four times—the last time a week ago at a hotel after a Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity rush party for Memphis state students.

In Washington, Kefauver said he was writing Bobo about the matter.

"I showed these films many times durling the subcommittee hearings to newspaper men and others who were interested to show them what was typical of the trash we had uncovered," Bobo said. "It was in this same spirit that I showed them to some of my friends here."

Bobo said he first showed the movies — before leaving the committee — to the Lions Club iin Bismark, N.D., at the request of Republican Senator William Langer, a committee member, and the club had 100 per cent attendance for the first time in years.

Bobo said Orgill, who accepted his resignation over the telephone late last night, knew nothing about the films. Kefauver, he added, would never look at them.

"I showed them only to male audiences and my primary purpose was educational," Bobo said.

POLICE LOOK IN MAN'S BEER CASE, FIND BURGLARY LOOT

Willie Williams of the John Robinson Homes, East St. Louis, was arrested in the 100 block of Seventh street there early today by detectives who wondered what was in a beer case he was carrying.

They found four small radios, a clock and two pen and pencil sets, all valued at $181. Williams said a stranger "just gave the box to me." The officers found a $300 plate galss window at the Meyer-Hurwitz Jewelry Co., several blocks away at 230 Collinsville avenue, had been broken. The articles were identified as store property by an officer of the firm.

Williams was held for further questioning.

MAN FATALLY STABBED, WOMAN SUSPECT HELD

Henry Hart, who lived in the 600 block of North Beaumont avenue, was fatally stabbed at his home last night. Police arrested Victoria Holmes, of the same address, and booked her suspected of homicide.

Police said the woman told them she had slashed at Hart with a butcher knife in a quarrel, but believed she had missed him when he walked away. Police found him on the sidewalk outside his home.

STATE SEIZES POWER COMPANY AT KANSAS CITY

Picketing Goes On and Acting Gov. Long Warns Strikers of 'Heavy Penalties.'

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 31 (AP)—Union strikers continued to picket the Kansas City Power & Light Co. today in spite of state seizure which forbids them to do so.

Lt. Gov. Edward V. Long issued a statement saying the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers locals would face "heavy penalties" should they persist in refusing to go back to work after a "reasonable time."

The state seized the utility last midnight under the King-Thompson Act. About 2000 workers in three locals are on strike.

In his statement, issued in Jefferson City, Long said:

"Inasmuch as the seizure did not take effect until a late hour last night, I feel the unions should have a reasonable time to comply with such seizure.

"However, after a reasonable time if they have not complied, or if it becomes obvious there is a defiance of such seizure, I wil lhave no choice but to instruct the Attorney General to proceed with the proper action against such parties not complying, as provided by law."

Long, acting Governor during Gov. James T. Blair's vacation, did not sepcify what he meant by a "reasonable time."

A mass meeting of strikers is said to be set for tomorrow.

Twenty employes reported for work at one generating plant shortly after the seizure became effective at 12:01 a.m. They went home when it became apparent that picket lines would not be removed immediately.

The company supplies electricity for Kansas City and most of its suburbs. The electrical workers left their jobs last Monday after negotiations for a new contract, in progress since June 30, bogged down. Service has been maintained by supervisory employes.

Long said the supervisory employes who have maintained operations could not cope with major machinery breakdowns or storm damage.

Long would not say what action he would take if the strikers refuse to return to their jobs. Under the law strikers who refuse to work under the state face loss of seniority and other benefits. Unions are subject to fines of $10,000 for each day they defy the law, and each of their officers can be fined $1000 a day.

Wages are the stumbling block in negotiations. They now range from $1.60 to $3 an hour. The strikers are asking for a 7¼ per cent increase. The company's latest offer was 5¼ per cent.

LARGE PROJECT BY ZECKENDORF IS ANNOUNCED FOR MONTREAL

Canadian National Railways and Promoter Plan Three-Block Development Costing $75,000,000.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MONTREAL, Aug. 31—William Zeckendorf and Canadian National Railways announced plans yesterday to build Canada's tallest building and a three-block business, commercial and entertainment center above the railroad's tracks in the heart of Montreal.

The 550-foot metal and glass office building, 40 stores high, will be cross-shaped. It will rise from the center of the plaza, surrounded by a 21-story hotel now under construction, a 15-story office building, a sunken open-air restaurant and skating rink, and Canadian National Railway's present passenger terminal.

Zeckendorf, president of Webb & Knapp, Ltd., subsidiary of his New York firm, and Donald Gordon, president of the railroad, said a lease covering their joint agreement will be signed within 90 days, and that work will start at an early date. Under the contract, construction of the project must be substantially completed within five years.

Estimate Over $75,000,000.

Unofficial estimates of the cost of the over-all project ranged from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000. Zeckendorf presently is seeking the contract to redevelop St. Louis's Mill Creek Valley slum area and to rebuild that city's downtown Plaza area.

Zeckendorf said the unique cruciform skyscraper planned here will have 1,500,000 square feet of air-conditioned space. Canada's present tallest structure is the 34-story Canadian Bank of Commerce building in Toronto, 476 feet above the street level.

The new hotel, the Queen Elizabeth, with 1200 rooms, is scheduled to open next year.

Other facilities contemplated for the plaza are a 20-story office building, a five-story Canadian National Railways office building, a three-story transportation center with a helicopter landing terminal on the roof, and a two-way moving sideway running the length of the terminal area.

Details of Moving Walk.

The moving sidewalk, operating a distance of almost a quarter of a mile, could accommodate 7200 persons an hour in each direction, enabling pedestrians to travel the three-block area without exertion or crossing a street.

Zeckendorf said his firm spent $360,000 in drafting the master plan for the development. It was conceived by I. M. Pei and Associates, working with railroad architects and the City of Montreal. Henry N. Cobb and Pershing Wong are the architects of the planned project.

Pei, former associate professor of architecture at Harvard University, and Zeckendorf have been closely allied in architectural research. Pei and his staff also work with Zeckendorf in planning various urban renewal projects which Zeckendorf has undertaken throughout the United States.

ABOVE-NORMAL TEMPERATURES IN 30-DAY OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The United States Weather Bureau yesterday issued its 30-day forecast for September, predicting above-normal temperatures east of the Continental Divide.

Temperatures are expected to average below normal over most areas west of the Continental Divide as well as along the extreme northern border of the country and in the far Southwest, the Weather Bureau said.

Above normal temperatures are expected over the remainder of the nation and along the California coast.

Precipitation is predicted to be above normal in the Western mountain states, the Northern and Central Plains, the Great Lakes region and also in the extreme Southeast.

Subnormal rainfall is expected over a broad band extending from Texas northeastward through the Ohio valley.

MARKET ON EAST SIDE ROBBED OF $1500 BY TWO

A market at 8704 Collinsville avenue on the East Side was robbed of $1500 yesterday by two men who forced Mrs. Lester Stevens, wife of the proprietor, and a customer, Mrs. Connie Duncan, to lie on the floor while they rifled the cash register and a money box beneath the counter.

The money, which was to be used for cashing payroll checks, had been obtained from a bank only a short time previously, police were told.

The robbers, both wearing dark glasses, fled in an automobile driven by a third man.

Rail Cars, Fire Station and Library To Serve as Classrooms at Desloge

Two Schools in Area Were Destroyed by Tornado—Homes Will Be Used Also.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DESLOGE, Mo., Aug. 31—Chaucer will be studied in a railroad coach and science explored in a fire station when school reopens here Tuesday.

In an effort to find temporary replacements for classrooms that were destroyed by a tornado last spring, the school district has converted to schoolrooms four railroad cars, a former office building of St. Joseph Lead Co., the city fire station and public library, private homes, churches and club halls.

The railroad cars, like the other emergency quarters, were obtained free. In place of Missouri Pacific passenger chairs, the coaches now contain neat rows of desks and chairs, tables and typewriters or woodworking benches.

In one car, to be used for industrial arts classes, a drill press, jig saw and woodworking shaper and jointer now stand where passengers once sat. Electric lines, plumbing and sewer connections are being installed. Before winter, gas space heaters will be hooked up.

Standing on Siding.

The cars have been chained in pairs to a siding in the business district of this Lead Belt town, 64 miles south of St. Louis. Wooden ramps or stairs have been constructed at each car.

"The railroad cars will be a challenge to teachers and students alike," Marple Agee, superintendent of Desloge School District No. 29, said, "But from an educational standpoint we'll do very well," he added firmly.

Agee said the railroad coaches will be used for classes in English, speech, Spanish and commercial subjects, in addition to industrial arts. The cars and the other temporary classrooms will be used by about 410 pupils in grades 7 through 12.

These are the youngsters who would have been attending high school here and elementary school in adjoining Cantwell if a tornado had not taken just six minutes to destroy both buildings last May 21. The school day had been completed and the children were gone before the storm struck. It resulted in destruction or damage to nearly 300 buildings here and in Cantwell and death for seven persons.

Extra Rooms Made.

The school district was left with only one building, an elementary school here. Classrooms have been fashioned out of art and music rooms, stairwells and the cafeteria in order to take in 140 pupils from the Cantwell school. Total enrollment here from kindergarten through the sixth grade is expected to be about 540.

While plans are being prepared by St. Louis architect Charles W. Lorenz for new buildings to be ready for use next fall, Superintendent Agee is determined to have a normal educational program despite abnormal classrooms. He dismissed a suggestion that pupils and teachers might be bothered by trains passing just a few feet from the coaches being used as classrooms.

"There won't be enough rail traffic to be a distraction," he said as he stood on the siding. "I think . . ."

Just then a freight train chugged by, and the rest of what he said was lost in the deep bellow of the horn on the diesel locomotive.

SEIZED IN FILLING STATION; ON SECOND TRIP, HE SAYS

A 17-year-old youth, who said he is Tommie Battles, arrested early today in a filling station at 3000 Cass avenue after police discovered a broken window, said he had stolen 196 packages of cigarettes from a vending machine and hidden them in a nearby school yard.

The youth explained, the officers said, that he had returned to the filling station "to get in the candy machine," after taking the cigarettes and $3.60 from the cigarette machine. The cigarettes were recovered from the school yard, at 1415 North Garrison avenue.

Battles, booked suspected of burglary, gave an address in the 1300 block of South Fourth street.

MIMI MEDART WOULD BUY BACK STOLEN JEWELRY

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 31—The Countess of Coventry, formerly Miss Mimi Medart of St. Louis, today offered to buy back her stolen jewelry—and no questions asked.

A thief broke into her Mayfair home Thursday night and stole jewelry valued at $7000. The countess said some of the articles had "great sentimental value." In a public appeal to the thief she said:

"Please return my engagement ring, charm bracelet, gold locket containing my dog's photograph, and hunt button initialed C. H. It would be a tragedy if they were melted down. I will even buy them back. The rest of the pieces keep if you wish."

Miss Mimi Medart married the eleventh Earl of Coventry in 1955. They expect their first child in a few weeks. The countess, who is 23 years old, is the daughter of Mrs. M. Amara. Her father, William S. Medart, a St. Louis restaurant operator, was killed in 1951 in a fall from the window of a hotel in Paris.

21 BOATS TO START RACING UP MISSISSIPPI TONIGHT

Operators of 21 racing boats equipped with outboard motors were ready to leave New Orleans for St. Louis this evening as the second annual Mississippi River Marathon, commemorating the famous race between the steamboats Natchez and Robert E. Lee, gets under way.

The marathon was scheduled to start at 7 p.m., St. Louis time, and the first craft to complete the 1058-mile run to St. Louis will receive a $1000 cash prize. The annual race is sponsored by the Mississippi River Marathon Racing Association, a non-profit organization that promotes safety in out-board equipment.

Among the contestants will be Byron K. Poole of Carmi, Ill., who with Lonnie J. Kirkpatrick, also of Carmi, won last year's race, making the trip in 47 hours, 14 minutes.

STOREKEEPER FREED ON BOND, SERVING OUT $4000 IN FINES

Oscar Session was released on $8000 bond yesterday after spending a night in city jail, as he started to serve out $4000 in fines imposed for violating the city building code by failing to correct unsafe conditions at his general merchandise store at 2349-51 South Broadway.

He was released pending a ruling on a motion for a new trial in the case. After a hearing Thursday, Judge David W. FitzGibbon of the Court of Criminal Correction upheld the fines assessed against Session in police court.

Session told the court he could not pay the fines, and he was taken to city jail pending transfer to the workhouse to serve out the penalty. Building inspectors had testified that his building was still a hazard as a result of a fire May 4, 1955.

MRS. ALLEN D. M'KINNEY ESTATE PUT AT $188,518

The estate of Mrs. Allen D. McKinney was valued at $188,518 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court. Mrs. McKinney, 72-year-old widow, died June 15 at her home, 4525 Lindell boulevard.

The inventory listed stocks valued at $184,858, with 2200 shares of Sperry-Rand Corp. being the principal item; cash, $2259 and personal property, $1400.

Provisions of a will filed earlier directed that 15 per cent of the stocks, not to exceed a total value of $25,000, go to a sister-in-law, Mrs. Pearl Jacocks, Knoxville, Tenn. The remainder of the estate will go to a sister, Mrs. Telleta R. Clutton, of the Lindell boulevard address.

FURNITURE FIRM HELD UP BY TWO, $1078 STOLEN

Robbers Search Cherokee Store Systematically, Force Four Into Rear Office.

The owner and three employes of Wick Furniture Co., 3152 Cherokee street, were held up yesterday afternoon by two armed men who remained in the store more than an hour while they collected $1078.

Posing as customers, the robbers suddenly produced pistols and ordered Arnold Wick, the owner, into a rear office along with Walter Cordes, Mrs. George Siebert and Miss Minnie Volk.

While one man guarded the employes, forcing them to face a wall with their heads bowed, the other robber directed Wick to open a safe, from which $455 was taken, and the cash register, containing $324.

Couldn't Hide Billfold.

The robbers also removed $84 from Wick's billfold, $10 from Mrs. Siebert's purse and $205 from Cordes's billfold. Cordes had slipped his billfold out and attempted to hide it on top of a filing cabinet, but the holdup men found it in their systematic search.

Before leaviing, they cut the wires of three telephones iin the store and ordered their victims into the basement. They ran out a door leading to the alley. The robbers, in their 20s, wore railroad caps and leather gloves.

Wick lives near Hillsboro, Mo.; Mrs. Siebert at 3819A Potomac street; Cordes at 2608 Minnesota avenue, and Miss Volk at 3725A Michigan avenue.

Skull Fractured.

Rubin Schumacher, night watchman at Midwest Overall Co., 80 Dock street, suffered a fractured skull and severe cuts when he was assaulted in the plant early today by a man, apparently a burglar.

Schumacher told police he was making his rounds when he encountered the man, who struck him with a billy and ran from the building. Nothing was found missing from the firm. Schumacher, who lives at 4102 North Eleventh street, was taken to City Hospital.

Christopher Clohessy, 5878 Plymouth avenue, told police he was knocked down and robbed of $25 early today by a man who accosted him in the 1100 block of Hodiamont avenue. Clohessy was treated at City Hospital for cuts on the head and a jaw injury.

Harmon Arbuckle, a spaghetti firm employe, 1343A Arlington avenue, reported he was robbed of $500 early today by three men who followed him to his automobile after he left a tavern in the 1100 block of North Kingshighway. He said one robber had a pistol.

Beaten, Robbed of $700.

William Moore, a laborer, 3015 Thomas street, told police five men took $700 from his billfold after assaulting him early today on Garrison avenue, between Dayton and Dickson streets. Moore said he was knocked down and dazed by blows but refused medical attention.

Clyde Ruddle, a mechanic, 3626 Shenandoah avenue, was robbed of $90 by two men who struck him with their fists and knocked him down on Spring avenue, between Cass and Aldine avenues, yesterday evening.

Theft of $300 from the home of Peter Orlando, 5551 Sutherland avenue, was reported last night. Orlando told police he found the house ransacked when he returned home after being absent from two to three hours. A pane in a kitchen window had been broken. The money was in a dresser drawer.

Purse Seized.

Mrs. Minnie McGee, 3752 Olive street, reported two youths grabbed her purse containing $37 yesterday when she was a block from her home. She chased the youths but they escaped.

Richard Hayden, manager of a filling station at 1220 Lafayette avenue, reported he was struck on the head with a club by a man who took $35 from him yesterday. The robber fled in an automobile.

A tavern at 7820 North Broadway was robbed of $140 yesterday by two men, one with a revolver. The robbers also took $15 from Mrs. May Lane, bartender, she told police.

L. & N. MERGER WITH N.C. & ST.L. PUT IN EFFECT

ICC Order Carried Out Although U.S. Supreme Court Has Not Given Its Decision.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 31—Merger of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad with the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway became effective yesterday, John E. Tilford, president of the L. & N., announced.

The L. & N. was authorized last March by the Interstate Commerce Commission to absorb its subsidiary. At the same time the ICC approved stock control of the merged companies by the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, which has had financial control of the L. & N. for some time.

The merger was delayed pending disposition of a suit filed by the city of Nashville and others opposing the merger. A special three-judge Federal court which sat in Nashville upheld the ICC order. An appeal is pending in United States Supreme Court, but an order to stay the merger until final decision of the court was denied earlier this month.

In announcing the merger yesterday, Tilford said that further delay awaiting the decision of the Supreme Court could not be justified from the standpoint of public and national interest in efficient and economical transportation.

"The clouds of uncertainty which have overhung the lives of N.C. & St. L. employes for more than two and a half years have been injurious to morale and have adversely affected operation of the railroad," he said. "Further prolongation of that uncertainty could only result in inferior and inadequate public service."

All outstanding stock of the N.C. & St.L. railroad is transferred to the L. & N., which assumes all obligations, liabilities under terms of the merger.

The merged organization will operate 5700 miles of main-line track and will have a combined property investment of $907,000,000. It has about 25,000 employes and more than 16,000 stockholders. Headquarters of the merged line will be in Louisville.

A spokesman for the company said its officers have every confidence the Supreme Court will not hold against the merger.

"Both the ICC and the three judge federal court ruled unanimously in favor of it," he said. "We see no reason for a reversal."

The L. & N. operates two passenger trains daily out of St. Louis and has freight operations out of East St. Louis. The N. C. & St. L. railroad does not operate directly into St. Louis.

CASEYVILLE PUPIL SHIFT REJECTED BY COLLINSVILLE

The Collinsville Board of Education today refused to accept high school students from Caseyville, which has no high school, because the Caseyville School Board has failed to pay $22,300 still due on last year's tuition for the students.

As a result, the parents of about 280 Caseyville high school students are going to have to pay the tuition, in monthly payments "in advance," if they want their children to attend Collinsville High School this year.

Caseyville voters this week defeated a proposal to increase their school tax 18 cents on the $100 assessed valuation, which would have provided funds to pay the tuition in full. The Caseyville School Board plans to resubmit the proposal next month, and, in the meantime, asked Collinsville to accept its high school students.

But the Collinsville board has refused, saying Caseyville must first pay the balance due on last year's tuition, and also give evidence of "financial soundness." Only Caseyville students who make monthly payments of tuition in advance will be accepted, it said.

FAILS TO BREAK INTO HOTEL, FLEES, IS SHOT AT BY POLICE

Two policemen attached to the Page Boulevard District early today chased a man they saw trying to break into the Delway Hotel, 5017 Delmar boulevard, but he eluded them. The man is believed to have been wounded by a shot fired by one of the officers.

Patrolman Gerald O'Connell and Joseph Spiess, wearing civilian clothing, were walking in the 5000 block of Delmar when they saw the man climb a 12-foot ladder and try to open a window in the hotel. He jumped to the ground and ran when they called out to him to halt.

As the man ran through alleys and lots, Spiess fired a warning shot in the air, then one shot at the fleeing man. The man staggered and yelled when the second shot was fired, but kept running. A waitress at a restaurant at 727 North Kingshighway reported she saw a man running back of the restaurant, trying to remove his jacket. She told police he was bleeding in the left shoulder.

378 CEMENT FINISHERS GET HIKE, END EAST SIDE DISPUTE

A labor dispute involving 378 members of Cement Finishers Union, Local 90, on the East Side, was settled yesterday with signing of a wage contract with the Southern Illinois Builders Association calling for wage increases totaling 40 cents an hour over a 25-month period.

Harold Gangnath, executive secretary of the association, said that with this settlement construction on the East Side should return to normal next Tuesday. Most construction workers returned to their jobs last Monday following settlement of a laborers' strike which began July 1.

Cement finishers will receive a 15-cent hourly increase, retroactive to July 1, 12½ cents next Feb. 1 and another 12½ cents next Aug. 1, bringing their scale to $3.77 an hour. Other new provisions included a grievance procedure and a no-work-stoppage clause, under which workers will agree to negotiate before striking.

SERGEANT CONVICTED OF ABUSING TRAINEES

Sentenced to 6 Months, Reduced in Rank and His Pay Is Forfeited.

FORT CARSON, Colo., Aug. 31 (AP)—Sgt. James L. Hobbs, 26-year-old Army combat veteran, yesterday was convicted by a special court-martial of maltreating two trainees.

Hobbs, a native of Gunnison, Miss., was reduced to the lowest enlisted rank, confined to six months at hard labor and must forfeit $40 of his pay every month for six months.

Except for the pay forfeiture, the sentence was the maximum penalty. Army code provides for a maximum fine of $44 a month.

Hobbs was convicted of hitting Pvt. John W. Clanton, 17, of Phoenix, Ariz., with his fists, and of forcing Pvt. Raymond L. Wilson, 22, of Bethel, Kan., to "stand on a platform for about 40 minutes shouting, 'Yes, Sir, I can speak English' or words to that effect."

The shouting incident and the fist assault both allegedly occurred Aug. 4.

Clanton testified he was assaulted after he had been absent from the barracks without permission when he should have been preparing for an inspection. Clanton told the court Hobbs asked him why he was absent.

"When I told him," Clanton testified, "I guess he got mad."

Clanton said he and several other trainees accompanied Hobbs to a trash dump. He testified that while the other trainees were emptying the trash, Hobbs backed him up against the sergeant's automobile and struck him with his fist several times on the neck and chin.

Clanton told the court that on the way back to the barracks, Hobbs stopped his car and ordered him to walk several yards down the roadway. He said Hobbs then told him to "Take off your tie and get comfortable.' Then he started hitting me again."

Clanton admitted he was not hurt badly and did not seek medical attention. He said he did not report the incident because Hobbs told him "You'll get it twice as bad if you do."

Clanton's testimony was corroborated by Pvt. James R. Townley of East St. Louis. Townley said he witnessed both assaults.

Wilson testified he suffered no physical harm while he shouted from the platform but said "my voice was beginning to fail me, and I was getting stiff."

WOUNDED BY STRAY BULLET

Isaac Muscin, 2800 Locust street, was wounded in the back early today by a stray bullet when talking with friends in the 2600 block of Mills street.

Muscin, 32 years old, told police he heard several shots and was struck. He is in Homer G. Phillips Hospital.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

St. Louis, Catching Up

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The recent article in Business Week magazine, "Can St. Louis Catch Up Again?" fails to report any progress being made in downtown St. Louis.

The Rice-Stix building, which was vacated when the company was purchased by the Reliance Manufacturing Co., is an example of what can be done with a downtown building that occupies a square block in the heart of a commercial center.

This seven-story structure is being renovated and redesigned into a modern merchandising mart to serve the rich Midwest market.

Although the Merchandise Mart is only four months old, it will be a profit-making venture by the first of the year.

Cities like Dallas have an enviable record for development. The Dallas Mart is an example of that development.

However, after only four months of operation, the St. Louis Mart has made greater progress than the Dallas Mart accomplished in its first two years of operation.

By January the St. Louis Merchandise Mart will be more than one third occupied and will make a substantial contribution to the economy of the city and especially to downtown St. Louis.

When it is completed more than 200 manufacturers and representatives will be tenants of the Mart and it will have complete facilities for modern merchandising and distribution.

Buildings like the Rice-Stix building need not be "made ghosts by technological and corporate changes."

Planning and co-operation by business men can bring new business to St. Louis and make the city, especially the downtown area, prosperous again.

MYRON MOSS, President,
St. Louis Merchandise Mart.

For Buying Toll Roads

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The purpose of the federal highway program is to build or acquire roads. Many of the best locations have been pre-empted by the turnpikes. It would be illogical for the Government to build duplicate roads in these areas. Either the turnpikes will remain for the public to use for a price, or the Federal Government must buy them.

Obviously, it is not a question of bailing out the bondholders, but of getting roads for free public use. The Post-Dispatch should also realize that the purchase of existing toll roads would be cheaper than the construction of new roads, wherever located, due to increased construction costs. A. BERGER.

A Vote for Billboards

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your feverish attempt to generate a public dislike for billboards is not at all worthy of a newspaper such as the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. You are inflating this issue all out of proportion to its importance.

No matter how cleverly your editorials are written on the subject, you simply cannot separate bill posters, roadside business men, carpenters, sign painters, electrical workers and all of the other people who are involved in this pursuit from the taxpaying public. They are taxpayers just like the rest of us.

As a taxpayer I am surely not ready to increase my burden still more by having the Government buy up all kinds of advertising rights along the highway. And I am sure that the people who own property that adjoins the highway are not yet ready to be tricked into any such a scheme as that. As a motorist I enjoy seeing the billboards along the roads and I am sure most people do, or so many fine businesses would not be using them. I find billboard advertising bright and cheerful, sometimes amusing and generally in better taste than any other advertising I am exposed to, including that in the Post-Dispatch.

G. H. LINDSTROMBERG.
Jacksonville, Ill.

Who Is the Mayor?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

With reference to the new $18,000 job created by Mayor Tucker: Who is the Board of Public Service, Mr. Tucker? The City Counsellor, Mr. Tucker? If this can go on without the consent of the Aldermen under the present charter, what could have happened under the new charter just repudiated by the voters? Does St. Louis have a totalitarian government? Is this Mr. Tucker's town? The chance of a future bond issue being approved by the voters is nil. Shades of Vic Miller! F. GAAL.

Polio in Rumania

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Rumania is hard hit by a severe epidemic of poliomyelitis which has already made thousands of victims among that country's children and youth. The people are in desperate need of medicine, notably Salk vaccine.

Unfortunately the Communist government of Bucharest is effectively preventing the entry of drugs and medical supplies from the free world.

We feel that energetic protests coming from the public opinion of this country, and notably from the American press, together with an offer by humanitarian and welfare societies in the United States to make available appropriate quantities of Salk vaccine to Rumania, may lead the Bucharest government to reconsider its present ruthless attitude.

CONSTANTIN VIOSOIANU,
Former Minister of Foreign Affairs of Rumania, President of the Rumanian National Committee.
New York.

Metro Wheels Turning

Having officially filed their petitions, the Citizens' Committee for City-County Co-ordination has started the constitutional machinery for creating a 19-member board of metropolitan freeholders.

Once appointed, the freeholders will have a year to produce a plan for adjusting the intergovernmental relationships of St. Louis and St. Louis county. And eventually—most likely in January or February 1959—the people of city and county in separate elections will decide whether or not to accept the plan.

Assuming a sufficiency of signatures on the Citizens' Committee petitions, the first step in a chain of events that could lead to far-reaching changes in government in this area is the naming of freeholders. First-class freeholders are much more likely to produce a sound, acceptable plan than a collection of party hacks. This is basic. The various appointing authorities accordingly are responsible for the overall caliber of the board. It ought to be the very best one that they can possibly assemble.

In the city the appointing authorities are the Mayor and judges of the St. Louis Circuit Court. In the county they are the County Council and the judges of the Probate and County Circuit courts. Each jurisdiction names nine freeholders, no more than five of whom may be of the same political party. This probably means five Democrats and four Republicans from St. Louis and five Republicans and four Democrats from the county.

Appointment of the nineteenth freeholder is a responsibility of Gov. Blair. The Constitution requires that this freeholder be a resident of neither the city nor the county. And while the Governor thus is free to appoint from anywhere else in the state, the experience of the two other metropolitan freeholder boards suggests that the nineteenth freeholder ought to reside in a county within reasonable driving distance of the metropolitan area—Jefferson, St. Charles or Franklin counties, say. Otherwise it may be onerous for him to serve, as was the case with the original outstate freeholder on the Transit board.

The very act of filing the freeholder petitions in itself is assurance to the people that eventually some kind of a metropolitan plan will be put before them for their approval. But this does not mean that they can sit back and expect the freeholders to fashion a perfect plan.

The people have a responsibility in the first place to persuade the appointing authorities to name the very best freeholders; and in the second place to persuade the freeholders to produce a plan that serves the overriding public interest. This means that the people will have to take a good deal more interest in the proceedings of this board of freeholders than they did in the City Charter board.

Moreover, charter reform both in the city and the county need not and must not wait on the completion of the task of the metropolitan freeholders. The jobs can go on simultaneously. The needs of the county government have been clear for a long time and they have been spelled out in the Metropolitan Survey report.

In St. Louis, the 72,000 people who supported the proposed new City Charter in its entirety are waiting for those who led the opposition to spell out the Charter amendments to which they will consent.

This is a time for progress and reform throughout the whole metropolitan district. Now that the freeholder petitions have been filed let the cause of reform be pushed with determination and vigor on all fronts. St. Louis must move forward and it will.

420 Francs to a Dollar

Felix Gaillard, Finance Minister of France, deserves credit for courage in attempting to freeze a selected list of prices, and for ingenuity in devaluing the franc. Yet neither step may be sufficient to solve the French financial crisis.

M. Gaillard does not call his new emergency monetary policy "devaluation," except in the "external" sense. What he has done is to tax nonessential imports 20 per cent and to give exporters a 20 per cent bonus on their exchange rate with other currencies. The object is to encourage exports. The immediate result is to bring the franc down from 350 to a dollar to 420.

The franc, as some Americans will remember, used to be worth about 20 cents. That was in World War I days. After World War II it was worth 2 cents. Later the franc was devalued several more times.

Since devaluation, called by any name, is likely to encourage price rises, it is hardly popular with the French people. That is why Gaillard's move took courage. But he is hoping that his complex policy will permit lower prices for French exports, and hence a better balance of trade, and in the end help "save" the franc.

Merely what is left of the franc shows that this is a gamble. There is not so much to save. France's economic plight is a strange compound of prosperity and inability to live within its means, its trade balance or its national budget. Factories hum, employment is high, but wars in Indochina and North Africa have drained the treasury and inflation proceeds.

No doubt M. Gaillard would prefer to attempt more drastic economic reforms than currency devaluation, but the political risk would be high. For French governments have been as unstable as the franc. And the corollary may be that it would take a really stable government to stabilize the franc.

Congress Tries Curbing the Court

The intention of Congress in passing the so-called Jencks bill is unexceptionable. It sought to save the Department of Justice and its agency, the FBI, from undue handicaps, especially in security cases. That this was deemed necessary is indicated by the vote: 315 to 0 in the House, and 74 to 2 in the Senate.

The bill grew out of the Supreme Court's decision on June 3 that Clinton E. Jencks, convicted of signing a false non-Communist affidavit, was entitled to a new trial because he had been denied access to statements made to the FBI by two Government witnesses.

Attorney General Brownell speedily asked for a limitation of this decision, but the new law is more narrow than what he wanted. It provides that only statements relating to trial testimony need be produced. The trial judge is ordered to remove irrelevant portions of records. If a Government report is refused, he may order testimony stricken from the record, or he may declare a mistrial. A new trial is not automatic.

In declaring, further, that the Government need not produce records for the defense before a trial begins, the law goes beyond the Jencks decision. It undercuts the rule, upheld in 1953, that in capital cases at least the defense may force pre-trial disclosure. In some states this rule is even broader.

Congress, in enacting the new law, had to decide whether the Government has rights paramount to those which might be claimed by a citizen. Some constitutional authorities insist that the citizen is in the superior position, that the state is but his servant. Congress worked out a compromise. Yet Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, who helped draft the law and voted for it, said that he had "some doubts whether this measure is constitutional."

Since an unconstitutional act of Congress may not stand, he—and perhaps others—were willing to submit the new law to the test of the courts. Reluctant as they may be to go against the intent of Congress, it is the judges who will speak the last word.

A Starter, Not a Package

Harold Stassen may find it necessary to be officially cheerful about the London disarmament conference, but there will be very little unofficial agreement with his optimistic report that the Russians are still "seriously negotiating."

If the sounds coming out of London indicate serious negotiation to Mr. Stassen, they indicate something different to nearly everybody else—to-wit, the painfully familiar ritual of delegates adopting what they hope will be favorable propaganda positions to cover up another failure of their protracted talks to arrive at any significant conclusion.

It is always possible, of course, to note "gains" in the direction of agreement. Some such gains can be pointed to as evidence that the current session of the arms talks was not altogether in vain. But the overriding fact remains that the world-wide hopes of some limited agreement that might point the way toward more comprehensive disarmament in the future have been disappointed.

Where lies the blame? On an intransigent Soviet Union? On an inherent inability of sovereign states to accept limitations on their military power? On the failure to arrive at basic political settlements first? On a reciprocal distrust between Communism and the Western world which impels both sides to put up the appearance but not the substance of disarmament negotiations?

Whatever the final answer may prove to be, the fact of a worldwide demand for reduction of the military burden is undeniable. In the face of that fact, it is important for Americans to ask themselves whether they have, through their Government, made the maximum possible contribution toward an arms agreement.

Our own view, previously stated in these columns, is that the maximum contribution this country could make would be to support a partial agreement which could be promptly and safely put into effect without waiting for the crossing of every "t" and dotting of every "i" on a comprehensive treaty.

Either a limited moratorium on nuclear tests or some preliminary version of "open skies" would qualify as a starter. Instead, Secretary Dulles has insisted on a so-called "package" policy which linked conventional disarmament, nuclear test suspension, open skies, and inspection of all nuclear production indissolubly together.

This "package" would be a splendid achievement if it could be realized, but American policy would rest on firmer footing if it also sponsored a less ambitious and more attainable partial agreement.

They Like to Watch Them Run

You never know where a reporter for The Wall Street Journal will turn up and there is no telling what he will be able to land on page 1 of the nation's leading financial daily. Take its staff reporter, Jerrold L. Schecter, for instance. One day this week found him among the giant watermelons and swelling pumpkins at the Du Quoin State Fair. Was he there to eat foot-long hot dogs and marvel at the tall cornstalks? Not any more than he was there to report corporation mergers or the trends in stocks and bonds. He was there to watch the Hambletonian run and to tell all about it to the chaps in Wall Street who used to go to Goshen, N.Y., and see the harness racing classic.

The hunch was a good one. After 31 years of running in the East, the Hambletonian—named after a famous trotter of which many present-day race horses are descendants—moved out to Southern Illinois this year. The racing drew the largest crowd in Hambletonian history, more than 25,000, and the purse was $111,126, the fattest for a single event in harness racing. The Hayes brothers, Don and Gene, were the genial, happy hosts, who gladly expanded their grandstand to accommodate the horse lovers who thronged to Du Quoin from barns and stables and pastures all over the country.

And they were horse lovers, too. For betting was not the object. Indeed, there was not a single betting window anywhere on the grounds. Oh, you could place a little wager man-to-man if you found someone who wanted to back up his choice on the oval. And here and there might have been a fellow who would bring two differently minded horse lovers together on a financial basis. But no true Hambletonian fan has to have money on a horse and driver to enjoy the race.

We're right glad it has moved out to our part of the country and hope it will prosper as well as entertain. And how, we wonder, do the folks over at Du Quoin like the thought of being as celebrated in the world of the Sport of Kings as their cousins at Hialeah and Longchamps and Aintree?

That Food and Those Pills

From out of the testimony of a procession of physicians appearing before congressional investigators it is possible to compound a bitter but simple and highly effective pill for those who are overweight: The only way to lose weight is to eat less. Admittedly such is a pill that is mighty hard to swallow.

But there are nostrums galore that are "fraught with deception and outright fraud." They appeal to many an excess avoirdupois person. There is a pill made of skimmed milk and lemon juice which one doctor said "tasted very good" but would not kill appetite nor reduce weight. There are others that contain ingredients which are harmful. The profit in these nostrums, with sales totaling $100,000,000 annually, is fabulous. There is massage, too, but that was pooh-poohed, and as for exercise—a 33-mile walk would eliminate only one pound.

So there is the entire gamut. You can go about your business downtown, yielding with sangfroid to the tempting aromas of sizzling hamburgers and french fries or to the seductive appearance of a cream-topped chocolate pie, and letting the belt out another notch every few days. You can encourage your wife to turn out more devil's food cakes and experiment with different varieties of pizza, and waddle about the neighborhood bragging of her culinary ability. And you can take your pills and fatuously hope they will make up for table indiscretions.

Or you can save that pill money and take that 33-mile walk if you have the time, the strength and the right shoes. As for us, we aren't worried about our 32-inch waistline, we never did believe in pills and we are blithely content to go on taking in more calories than we burn and burning all bridges behind us.

Sweet Whistle Below the Point

The Mirror of Public Opinion

'Another steam-powered towboat has bowed to progress,' says headline, but writer doubts it's progress; he tells how it feels in the pilothouse of a river steamer, and how the Kokoda won from the Helena; diesels have the day, but atom power lies ahead?

Norman Halliday in The Menard Time

"Another steam-powered towboat has bowed to progress."

That's how the lead ran in the news story of the dismantling of the Monongahela. She was towed to the boneyard by a brand-new diesel gadget that seems to have everything but automatic steering.

Assuming that a man wrote the story, he has probably never been any closer to a towboat than he has to Novaya Zemlya.

He hasn't stood by the pilothouse of a traveling steamboat with his feet on firm and steady deck, feeling more than hearing the power rumble from behind and below him.

He hasn't stood there, cooled by the fresh river air pushing on his face, letting the willows and the cottonwoods ease silently to the rear on each distant bank, and leaving a different sovereign state behind on either side.

He hasn't seen this from below the tall, sighing twin smokestacks, through shivering guy wires humming from the wind.

The Tang of Oil and Steam

He hasn't been in the engine room of a stern wheeler; smelled the clean, unique odor of steam made from river water, the hot steel and lubricating oil, and the particular tang of the tallow in the cylinder oil; watched the gleaming piston rods going in and out of the two cylinders fastened to the deck across from each other, to make the paddle wheel turn at almost 25 r.p.m.s (really rolling for one of them!)

He hasn't stood back outside by the stern wheel crank, watching a long, biceped, timber pitman making its muscular sweeps back and forth, as inexorable as time.

He hasn't looked up from there to see the spray the wheel throws back up over itself from behind for its own Niagara mist.

He hasn't watched the wake of a stern wheeler, seen the following waves shadowing the boat.

He hasn't stood in a stern wheeler's engine room and noticed just how quiet it was, with only faint hissings, and the soft knocking of pumps.

And he never head the whistle on the Monongahela—it was a singing choir. He's missed the harmonied call of many tones piping out after the pilot had first cracked just enough steam into it to get the brass warm—because a cold whistle won't sound just right.

Has he ever been on a diesel towboat? They are vibratorily proper, their chug-chug is sturdy and incessant, and they roar from stem to stern and from beam to beam with their internal combustion.

The diesel exhaust fumes are modern; especially if you're on a diesel, and the wind is moving with you at your speed.

A Steamboat Wins a Race

Did he see the finish of the race between the diesel Helena and the steamer Kokoda? Or did he see the start of it?

They were both rated the same horsepower and shoved the same size tows north from New Orleans. The diesel moved ahead at first, but once the Kokoda got the water out of her cylinders, that was the end of that.

And when the diesel arrived at Memphis, Tenn., the steamboat was at Cairo, Ill.

When the steamboat finished the race at St. Louis, the diesel was getting to Cairo. They were about 200 miles apart.

If he had been at St. Louis when the diesel boat finally did arrive, he would have probably enjoyed listening to her big air horn. They blow it cold, but it sounds like an overheated bull moose at breeding time.

Although the transportation world has gone diesel crazy, it may be just a fad.

Because steam has some push that diesel just doesn't.

And some day, some smart man will likely get those atomic reactors down to a fair price, and they'll be using them to power other boats than submarines.

Atomic reactors boil water into steam.

Then it won't be so uncommon to hear a sweet steamboat whistle now and then, 'way down below the point.

The Farm Bell

From the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer.

The clanging implications of various bells were musically denoted by Edgar Allan Poe. But Poe was a city man. Poe would be amazed today to know of the number of big, brass bells that thrash this intense summer torpor from farm to farm in eastern North Carolina.

Surprisingly enough, the farm bell has never been the exclusive province of the grandees and large plantation owners. It is put to all sorts of usages on the moderately large farms.

In the morning its chirpy monody gets you up without any of the rasping abruptness of a bugle and when the heat at noon is almost unbearable, the cool welcome of the farm bell is almost like a rush of salt spray as it flings its surcease in the middle of the steaming rows.

But at 1 o'clock this same old farm bell, by the cruelest kind of black magic is Simon Legree, whip meanly in hand, scourging you pathetically back to the rampant lunacy of the sun, to the fields whose tenacious embrace transcends even that of unrequited love.

During the unending afternoon, when it seems that wilt and wild grass cavort fiendishly as a troupe of vampires, you listen eternally for the soothing liquid sounds of the old bell to break the shackles of fettered toil. You listen for what seems an eternity.

Then, finally, blessedly, it comes, like a flow of silver water in a waste place. Just at the precise, horrible minute when the field seems, leechlike, to be after your last drop of substance, the sweet, final tones of the bell come in the manner of an all-wise nurse to take your hand and lead you gently, yet despite travail exuberantly, to the shade trees of the home place to water, to contemplation of a good day's work and to rest.

To rest, that is, until on the early morrow when the bell stands on his hind legs, a hungry horse neighing, to roust you out once again to grapple with the innumerable gods of sun and wind.

NEW ROLE FOR KANSAS.

From The Lyons (Kan.) News.

Farmers who have bogged down in wheat field lakes, motorists who have noted scads of toads and frogs on highways and all those who have suffered from the extreme humidity of this summer can appreciate the aptness of a remark by a fellow on the next stool at the coffee counter: "We are the Kansas Everglades."

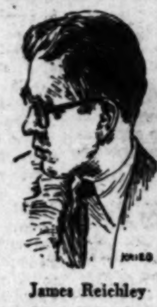
Coal-Town Epic

THE BURYING OF KINGSMITH, by James Reichley. (Houghton Mifflin, 426 pgs., $4.50.)

The townspeople of Fort William gather for the funeral of Nathaniel Kingsmith, their reform Mayor, now a war hero fallen in battle. Was he "King" or was he "smith"? Was he magnificent or was he ordinary? Was he a soaring spirit or was he just a swollen ego sucking the life out of everything it touched? The man whose remains lie inside the flag-draped coffin is remembered differently by his wife, his stepfather, his mistress, his friends. Which of their conflicting versions lies nearest the truth?

The figure of Kingsmith himself dominates James Reichley's new novel. That of Eddy Marx, his half-brother, is also in the forefront; Eddy who recalls from early childhood the mysterious, jumbled words of his mother, "Alor ismishepper . . . Eleedame besia stilwawa . . ." Eddy Marx was just a man, but he had to live in the shadow of what may have been greatness or may have been evilness.



James Reichley

The story is told within an extended series of short scenes, some dealing with the present, some with the past, some related in the first person, some in the third person. Reichley reshuffles these odd-units together and lo! they emerge not only with logical continuity, but also with unexpected wallop. This many-points-of-view presentation is, of course, not new, yet it seems especially effective here. Perhaps the essence of man as an individual (Mayor Kingsmith) or as a community (Fort William) can best be understood when inward as well as outward reference is employed.

The arms of Reichley's story forever overlap and entangle. His characters affect and engage each other at several depths, yet each stands clearly and consistently in the reader's field of vision. In spite of numerous complications, the reader is never left to wonder who-is-who or what-is-up. This is true though many of the flash-backs flash back to dim recollections of childhood. Though the children described in these dreamlike sequences are unnamed, they are always recognizable.

William Faulkner once said that a great novel must attempt the impossible, and perhaps approach it. He felt that Thomas Wolfe more clearly accepted this challenge than any other American author including himself. James Reichley has not yet acquired the universal touch of either of these men, yet he demonstrates a commendable willingness and aptitude for deep exploration in this coal-town epic.

The author hails from Pottsville, Pa., which is also the hometown of John O'Hara. Fort William is more or less the counterpart of O'Hara's famous Gibbsville. ROBERT FRIEDMAN.

A Timely Study

EUROPE AND THE MONEY MUDDLE, by Robert Triffin. (Yale, $5.)

This is primarily an analysis of the financial recovery of Western Europe since World War II, with recommendations for a return to the system of multilateral trade and payments. The author is professor of economics at Yale, and his title gives a hint of his rather unusual approach.

This approach relates not to his treatment of his subject, which is straightforward enough, but to his tactic of preceding the text with his own "review" of his book. In it Prof. Triffin speaks of himself in the third person, and rather kiddingly suggests to the reader what he should concentrate on and what he should skip.

Actually the book is a timely study which takes a hopeful view of a return to full convertibility of currencies. It is just around the corner, says the author, and urges that its return be securely buttressed.

INNER BELT CHANGE MIGHT HURT KINLOCH

The original route proposed for the Inner Belt Expressway in St. Louis county is "the only plan that can assure the success" of a proposed slum clearance program in Kinloch, Edward T. Wright, executive director of the Kinloch Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority, said today.

In a letter to County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews, Wright warned that any change in location of the projected north-south freeway might cost the authority as much as $80,000 in expected federal funds and create a new expense of nearly $100,000 for the agency, constituting a "serious blow" to the financing of the program.

A route that would deviate drastically from the original location proposed for the Inner Belt in 1955 was outlined recently in an engineering study but was rejected by the County Council. A further study of the original route and possible alternates is being made now.

Wright pointed out that under the original plan, the Inner Belt would traverse the southern part of Kinloch for a distance of about five blocks. As a result of a credit allowed for improvements resulting from the proposed expressway, he said, the Kinloch agency expected to receive $80,000 in Federal funds toward the cost of its slum clearance project.

The authority also would face the prospect of an additional cost of $100,000 to acquire and clear land if the expressway route is changed. The original route would result in clearing a portion of the Kinloch urban renewal area at no cost to the city.

A plan to rehabilitate a tract of 112 acres in Kinloch in a $600,000 project, with two-thirds of the cost to be borne by the Federal Government, was approved by the Federal Housing Administration last February. The Government already has advanced $66,000 for planning the project, and has underwritten a public housing program in Kinloch that is to provide 100 low-rent apartments.

About one-fourth of Kinloch, a predominantly Negro community in the northeastern part of the county, is considered blighted.

EUGENE J. SARTORIUS

EUGENE J. SARTORIUS, FORMER JUDGE, DIES

Former Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius died early today of a heart attack at his home, 6490 Westway road.

Judge Sartorius, 73 years old, retired from the bench because of poor health in March 1956 after having served as a circuit judge for more than 21 years.

He was first elected in 1934, running as a Democratic candidate before adoption of the nonpartisan court plan. He was re-elected in 1940, and was retained in office for additional six-year terms in 1946 and 1952 under the new court system. Because of his retirement for physical disability, he did not complete his last term.

Judge Sartorius was a controversial figure during his service on the bench. In 1943 he was criticized by four fellow judges for granting paroles without obtaining a report from the parole officer, as required by circuit court rules. He failed several times to receive the indorsement of the Bar Association of St. Louis as a candidate for judge, or for retention in office.

A lawyer for 46 years, Judge Sartorius attended St. Louis University and served as deputy circuit clerk in 1902-07. In 1925 he was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for Comptroller.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Clara R. Sartorius; a son, Alderman John A. Sartorius of the Twenty-third Ward, who is a former State Representative; a daughter, Mrs. Joseph M. Keating, and a sister, Mrs. Olivia Schumacker.

The funeral will be at 9 a.m. Tuesday from St. Raphael Catholic Church, 6000 Jamieson avenue, with burial in SS. Peter and Paul Cemetery.

The estate of Arthur J. Fausek, board chairman and cofounder of Modern Engineering Co. and Acetylene Gas Co. here, was valued at $1,073,263 in an inventory filed yesterday at Clayton. Fausek died last June 20 at the age of 71.

Among the assets of the estate were stocks valued at $701,830 on today's market; $223,885 in cash; bonds valued at $21,847 and his home at 7611 Shirley drive, Clayton, appraised at $25,000. He held 22,463 shares of various stock on which no value was placed. This included 1139 shares of capital stock in Modern Engineering and 706 shares of capital stock in Acetylene Gas.

The inventory showed Fausek held 8707 shares of common stock of the National Cylinder Gas Co., valued at $388,594, and 3695 shares of common stock of the Liquid Carbonic Corp., valued at $18,902. In his will, Fausek left his estate in trust for his wife, Mrs. Martha Ida Fausek.

FRANCIS H. KENNEDY TAKES OATH AS COUNTY ASSESSOR

Francis H. Kennedy, first Democratic assessor elected in St. Louis county since 1936, was sworn in yesterday in ceremonies at the courthouse in Clayton. State and county oaths of office were administered by Circuit Judge Michael J. Carroll and Clerk Leo E. Sievers. About 25 persons attended.

Kennedy, a real estate dealer, will take office Tuesday. He was elected last November, defeating Phil G. Deuser, Republican, who was seeking his fifth consecutive term. State statutes provide that the assessor-elect take office Sept. 1 following election instead of the following Jan. 1 as most other county officials do.

Kennedy says he plans to retain temporarily about one-fourth of the 75 employes of the assessor's office appointed under Deuser. The others have been given dismissal notices and will be replaced, he said.

PROTESTANTS STUDY PROBLEMS OF UNITY

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Thirty-four Protestant and Orthodox churches of the United States and five Canadian churches will tackle issues of Christian unity in the first North American study conference on that subject, opening Tuesday at Oberlin College, Oberlin, O.

"The Nature of the Unity we Seek" is the theme for the conference, which has been in preparation for two years. More than 300 local interdenominational "ecumenical conversations" have been part of that spadework. Sixteen regional groups have prepared working papers for the Oberlin discussions.

Chairman of the St. Louis area study group is the Rev. Dr. Elmer J. F. Arndt of the faculty of Eden Theological Seminary; he will take part in the conference. Another Eden Seminary professor, the Rev. Dr. Allen O. Miller, is a delegate from the Evangelical and Reformed Church (United Church of Christ).

Methodist Delegate.

The Rev. Dr. Wesley H. Hager, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, is a delegate from the Methodist Church.

Mrs. Eugene R. McCarthy, vice president of the National Council of Churches, will serve as a consultant at Oberlin.

The Rev. Dr. W. Davidson McDowell of Ladue Chapel will represent the Metropolitan Church Federation.

The conference, which will continue through Sept. 10, is sponsored by the World Council of Churches, the National Council, and the Canadian Council of Churches. There will be 285 official delegates and 90 consultants, 13 of them from overseas.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, which is not a member of the sponsoring councils, is sending observers.

The chairman for the Oberlin conference is Bishop Angus Dun of the Washington (D.C.) Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He will give the opening address at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Two Vice Chairmen.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, president of the National Council of Churches, and the Rev. Dr. Emlyn Davies, pastor of Yorkminster Baptist Church, Toronto, Canada, are vice chairmen.

Bishop Hanns Lilje, of Hannover, Germany, past president of the Lutheran World Federation, will give an address Sunday, Sept. 8.

The conference will be divided into 12 study sections in three major divisions. Division I will deal with doctrinal matters; Division II will get down to some of the practical problems involved in church unity, and Division III will be concerned with "cultural pressures"—mobility of population, governmental policies and programs, "forces at work on the college campus, and racial and economic stratification."

Dr. Paul S. Minear, professor of New Testament at Yale Divinty School, is program and study secretary.

TOWER GROVE CHURCH OFFERS TRAINING COURSE

The Rev. C. Aubrey Hearn of the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn., will conduct a study on "Alcohol and Christian Influence" next week at Tower Grove Baptist Church, Tower Grove and Magnolia avenues. OLD POLISH CHURCH TO HOLD LAST MASS

St. Casimir Church, Eighth and Mullanphy streets, once the largest Polish Catholic parish in the city, will celebrate its last Sunday mass in its old church tomorrow at 11 a.m. The church, which was built in 1895, is to be razed to make way for the Mark Twain Expressway.

St. Casimir is the second north-side Catholic church to give way to the highway now under construction; St. Michael the Archangel Church, 2200 North Eleventh street, held its last mass last Sunday.

A new St. Casimir parish has been established in north St. Louis county, and a nine-room parochial school is being built at Vorhof and Ainsworth drives. The school will contain an auditorium that will be used temporarily as a church.

The first St. Casimir Church was in a Protestant church building which was bought for $5000. By 1900 the parish had grown to 250 families and by 1919 there were 800 families, and 700 children attended the parish school. Last year only 38 children were enrolled in the school, which was taught by two nuns of the Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Sister Paulette has taught in the parish school for 24 years.

At present, St. Casimir parish has 258 families, many of whom are no longer active but have kept their affiliation with their home parish. Many of the old residences in the neighborhood have been razed for commercial purposes.

The last mass tomorrow will be celebrated by the Rev. Vincent J. Mogelnicki, administrator of the parish. He will be assisted by two former assistant priests at St. Casimir, the Rev. Victor Gorzel, pastor of St. Aloysius Church, and the Rev. Joseph Pawlowski, pastor of St. Stanislaus Church. Another former assistant, the Rev. Stanley J. BAPTIST YOUTHS ATTEND CONFERENCE ON THEOLOGY

Seven young members of Third Baptist Church attended a conference on theology this week at the American Baptist Assembly, Green Lake, Wis. The conference opened Sunday and closed yesterday.

The St. Louis group included Miss Louise Bode, youth director of Third Baptist Church; Miss Sharon Berendes, Miss Opal Morris, James Whitener, Delbert Dace, Miss Donna Turpin and Miss Barbara McGrue. Nearly 600 students from all parts of the United States attended the conference.

Dr. Culbert G. Rutenber, professor of the philosophy of religion at Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, gave daily lectures on theology. Each afternoon the conference broke up into small discussion groups.

Baptist Hays Urges Christian Solution of Racial Problems

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (UP)—The head of the South's largest religious denomination said today church members have three "clear duties" to perform in seeking a Christian solution of racial problems.

The duties were listed by Representative Brooks Hays (Dem.), Arkansas, recently elected president of the 8,500,000-member Southern Baptist convention, in an interview in his Capitol Hill office. He called them "moral imperatives" which confront every sincere Christian layman, regardless of his personal views on segregation.

"Our first duty," said the Congressman, "is to keep free and unfettered the prophetic voice of the church."

Silencing a Minister.

Hays said attempts to "silence" a minister who prods the sore spots of a congregation's conscience are "the supreme heresy."

"Every layman who really believes his Christian profession must help to defend his minister from any political, social or economic pressures that would keep him from speaking out his true convictions."

The second duty, he said, is to throw all of the influence of religion—and that influence is considerable in most Southern communities—on the side of a "nonviolent adjustment" of racial tensions.

"The whole power of the church must strike hard at any threat, intimidation or physical violence. The Christian conscience cannot condone beatings, bombings and the brutalities of night-riding thugs."

Finally, church members must display "imagination and Christian courage" in correcting "specific situations where the actual practice of the community has produced injustice."

Aim of 'Simple Justice.'

In the present inflamed state of Southern feelings, Hays feels, a firm determination to work for "simple justice" may yield more real progress in race relations than an appeal to the higher motive of brotherly love.

Whatever all-out Northern integrationists may think of this threefold program, Hays knows that it is a lot to ask of Baptists under the conditions now prevailing in the Deep South.

"It will take courage and conviction to discharge these three duties," he said. "If Southern Baptists meet the challenge, it will not be any social or political theory that motivates them, but a sincere desire to be disciples of Jesus Christ."

In Washington, Hays is an active member of Calvary Baptist Church. Like other District of Columbia Baptist churches, Calvary has "dual membership" in both the Southern and American (Northern) Baptist Conventions. Shortly after Hays was elected to head the Southern branch, his pastor, Dr. Clarence Cranford, was chosen president of the Northern Convention.

BAPTISTS JOIN CRUSADE AGAINST OBSCENE MATERIAL

Southern Baptist churches are being called on to take an active part in a campaign to rid newsstands of a "veritable avalanche of indecency and obscenity which has cascaded upon them," Baptist Press reports.

The call was voiced by ministers and lay men and women who attended a week-long conference on obscene literature sponsored by the Southern Baptist Christian Life Commission at the Baptist Assembly, Glorieta, N. M.

The keynote address at the conference was given by O. K. Armstrong, of Springfield, Mo., former Missouri Congressman. "Many of these new publications that have appeared like a horde of locusts openly sneer at Christian morality, say that it is old-fashioned and out-of-date," Armstrong declared. "They publish article after article glorifying immorality."

Victory Over Cubs Gives Mizell 1.82 ERA Since Black Day in July

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31 — The agonizing afternoon Gil Hodges hit a game-tying grand-slam homer off Wilmer Mizell at Brooklyn was the blackest day in both the pitching career of the boy from Vinegar Bend and the St. Louis managerial term of Fred Hutchinson. Six weeks later they have turned disaster into triumph.

Hutchinson, though his strategy of permitting a southpaw to face a dangerous righthanded slugger could be questioned, insisted at the time it was important to "get the big guy over the hump," explaining:

"If we're going to go anywhere, we need Mizell and if he's going to snap out of this, he's got to pitch. And against both left and righthanded hitters, too."

Whether Hutch's reasoning was sound is debatable, of course, but there's no question in Mizell's mind that his manager's faith and willingness to pitch him were factors in the lanky lefthander's remarkable return to form.

"I never wanted so much to win for a man as I did for him," one pitcher said of another following yesterday's game at Wrigley Field, where Mizell broke a three-game Cardinal losing streak by beating the Cubs, 2 to 1. The victory was the Redbirds' first in their last seven games with Chicago.

High Praise by Hutch.

Vinegar Bend was an overpowering pitcher in his strikeout duel with Moe Drabowsky, fanning 11 to the young righthander's nine. Mizell walked only two and yielded eight hits as he recorded his sixth victory against 10 defeats.

"The way he's pitching now, he'd get the 20 games or close to 'em we'd hoped for," said Hutchinson, adding:

"The big guy has heart and he worked hard. Like Bob Bauman says, he never alibis, either. He learned a lesson, I believe. He let himself get soft physically and his arm was weak. He worked to get into condition. Then he got straightened out, to overcome those flaws that fouled him up in his delivery, bothering his control and his effectiveness.

"Al Hollingsworth, he'll tell you, did a fine job trying to put the pieces back together for him, but they didn't fall into place until Vinegar saw the movies we'd taken of him pitching."

Mizell agreed. "It's one thing for a man to tell you you're hiding home plate with your front shoulder and to say you're cocking your right leg toward first base too much, affecting your balance. It's another, though, to see yourself in pictures. Gosh, I was a mess."

Not now, though. Yesterday the Cubs scored only once, a result of seventh-inning singles by Jim Bolger, who finished with "4 for 4," and Cal Neeman and Bobby Morgan. Otherwise, they never threatened and advanced only two runners into scoring position.

The Cardinals, still missing Stan Musial's thump, broke a string of 22 consecutive scoreless innings in the seventh on a walk to Don Blasingame and singles by Joe Cunningham and Wally Moon. With the bases subsequently loaded that inning, Del Ennis hit into a double play, but in the ninth following a single by Moon, Walker Cooper's sacrifice and Al Dark's safety—the Redbirds' seventh and final hit—Ennis lined a decisive sacrifice fly to Bolger.

'Straight Up and Over.'

The movies that Mizell said were so valuable as a mirror reflecting his pitching ugliness were taken just before the All-Star break in a game in which the southpaw went 11 innings to beat Cincinnati at Busch Stadium.

"Even though I won (4-3), the films—when they were developed and I got to study 'em after we came off the road—showed what Hollingsworth meant when he advised me, 'Pitch straight up, straight back and straight over.'"

Since that black day at Brooklyn, even though limited to only three victories in decisions because of inadequate batting support, Mizell has pitched 58⅔ innings in which he has allowed just 40 hits and 12 runs, walking only 11 and fanning 38. His E.R.A., since July 18, the day the roof almost caved in on him and Hutchinson, is a spectacular 1.82.

Dr. I. C. Middleman, the St. Louis team physician who came to Chicago to examine Stan Musial, gave the man a shot of novocaine in his left shoulder to encourage him to swing more freely. After watching Musial in batting practice, however, Dr. Middleman said, "the shoulder still hurts him and he can't hit the ball with enough authority to do the club or himself enough good. As Stan feels, he'll probably need a few more days."

Tom Alston, weighing 204 or 30 pounds more than when he went on the disabled list in June, rejoined the Cards and will be eligible tomorrow when the 25-player limit expires. . . . Murry Dickson, also on the disabled list, will rejoin the Redbirds next week in St. Louis.

Dark's Good Try Goes for Naught

—United Press Telephoto.

ALVIN DARK of the Cardinals tries to break up a double play in the seventh inning of yesterday's game against the Cubs at Wrigley Field, but Second Baseman BOBBY MORGAN gets the throw away in time to catch Del Ennis at first. The play came on Ennis's grounder to Shortstop Ernie Banks with the bases loaded and only one out. The Redbirds won in the ninth, 2-1.

Mallorys Beat Jefferson City For State Baseball Title, 3-1

By Neal Russo

When Bud Foster helped found the Missouri-Illinois Ban Johnson League last year, his only goal was to enable boys too old for Legion ball to continue playing baseball. Now his boys have returned the favor with a state amateur title.

Jubilant after the Mallory team he manages downed the Jefferson City Stags, 3-1, last night in the Missouri Amateur Baseball Congress final at Fairground Park, Foster recalled his part in organizing the league for boys under 21.

"Rudy Weber, Roy Lee and I wanted to do something for the kids over the Legion age limit," Foster said, "and we didn't want to throw them into senior leagues against men with a lot of professional experience."

However, youth was served as Foster's Mallorys knocked off seasoned teams like the Carters, Red Villas and Braves before cutting down the Jeff City invaders.

The outstaters, managed by Ernie Vivion, had been impressive too, yielding a total of two runs in triumphs over Carondelet Sunday Morning Club, the defending champion, St. Engelbert, and Kimacks.

In the final, though, it was too much Bud Harbin, the 6-6 former Beaumont High star drafted from the Reliables. The lanky righthander, who was awarded a basketball scholarship to Missouri U. a few days ago, after starring two seasons with Hannibal-LaGrange, yielded only three hits, fanned nine and walked five.

Harbin had to be at his best with his baffling curve because his mound rival, Ross Boeger, third baseman on Mizzou's 1952 N.C.A.A. runners-up, was effective after a shaky start.

Boeger, principal at Ashland (Mo.) High, gave up a leadoff home run to Bob Meyers in the first inning. Then Stan Braniecki opened the Mallorys' second with a double, advanced to third on a wild throw and scored on Dave Grossman's fly. For insurance, Grossman singled and came home on Ron Seago's two-bagger in the sixth.

Until Charley Thornhill singled in the ninth, only Cab Logan was able to hit safely against Harbin. The Jeff City second baseman started the first with a triple and tallied on a bad outfield throw. With two out in the fifth, he got a bloop single.

In a Muny tournament game, Kutis North piled up seven runs in the second inning on the way to a 15-3 rout over the Orioles. Lee Engert whacked a three-run homer and drove in another tally with a single. That was enough support for Ed Gerken and Dick Loeser, who combined in a four-hitter.

Fendlers Win.

Ted Fendlers took a 1-0 lead in the Midget League eliminations of the Municipal Athletic Association with a 9-3 decision last night over the Jaspers. The Fendlers need one more victory for the title.

Seixas Beats Junior Champ In U.S. Tennis

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 31 (UP)—Veteran Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, national champion in 1954 and twice runner-up, moved into the second round of the U. S. tennis singles championships today by walloping national junior champion Alan Roberts of Brooklyn on the center court, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0.

Roberts, a rangy, dark-haired 18-year-old of considerable promise, showed a wide variety of strokes against Seixas and occasionally got the better of long exchanges. But Vic kept the pressure on and never was in any danger scoring his first service break in the third game of the first set. The match required only 39 minutes.

The 34-year-old Seixas, seeded fourth in the tournament, scored breaks in the first game of the final two sets and although he turned the match into a rout, his teen-aged foe never lost his poise.

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson of New York began the final leg of a childhood dream of a grand slam of Wimbledon and U. S. Championships in a first-rounder against Karol Fageros of Miami, Fla.

Second-seeded Dick Savitt of South Orange, N.J., and Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., gained the second round with impressive victories yesterday before a handful of 2500 spectators.

The 30-year-old Savitt breezed past Calvin MacCracken of Tenafly, N.J., 6-1, 6-0, 6-4. Savitt, flashing the power that won him the Wimbledon and Australian titles in 1951, needed just 41 minutes to gain the victory.

Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, advanced to the second round with a 6-3, 6-0, 6-1 victory over Hugh Tierney of St. Paul, Minn.

Miss Brough, four-time Wimbledon queen and 1947 United States champion, needed nine minutes less to dispatch 27-year-old Sieglinde Boeck of Canada, seven years her junior, 6-1, 6-2.

America's top-ranked Hamilton Richardson, the sixth-seeded Rhodes scholar from Westfield, N.J., defeated Stephen Gottlieb of New York.

Third-seeded Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, defeated Isabell Troccole of New York, 6-3, 6-1. Sven Davidson (3), Wimbledon semifinalist from Sweden, defeated Charles Masterson of Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-1, 9-7, and Neale Fraser (5) of Australia, topped Peter Estin, Greenwich, Conn., 6-1, 6-0, 6-0. Kurt Nielsen, United States indoor champion and Denmark's No. 1 player, beat Crawford Henry, Atlanta, Ga., 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Australia's third-ranked Mal Anderson defeated Japan's top-ranking player, Kosei Kamo, 9-7, 6-3, 6-2. India's top player, Ramanathan Krishnan, beat David Harum, Coral Gables, Fla., 6-4, 6-3, 6-1, and one of Uncle Sam's young stars, Barry Mackay of Dayton, advanced with a 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 victory over Don Rubell of Brooklyn.

Braves Extend Edge Over Redlegs To 15-2; Yanks, White Sox Lose

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (UP)—It isn't exactly cricket, but the pennant-bound Milwaukee Braves may be strongly tempted to vote their Cincinnati "cousins" a sizable World Series slice when they sit down to cut the melon in October.

No club in the National League has contributed more to the Braves' present seven-game lead than the Redlegs, who have dropped 15 out of 17 to Milwaukee so far this season.

Every pennant-winner generally has its favorite "patsy." Last year, for example, the Dodgers made the Cubs and Cardinals their "whipping boys" by taking 16 out of 22 games from each. And over in the American League, the Yankees defeated Kansas City 18 out of 22 and have beaten the A's 17 times out of 20 this year.

The Braves used a barrage of four home runs last night in defeating the Redlegs for the eighth straight time, 9-5.

Eddie Mathews, Carl Sawatski, Frank Torre and Wes Covington each homered for Milwaukee as Southpaw Warren Spahn notched his seventeenth victory although he was knocked out in the seventh. Milwaukee manager Fred Haney had to employ three pitchers in the ninth when the Redlegs put together four walks for their final run but Taylor Phillips finally struck out Bob Thurman to end the game. Don Gross suffered his ninth straight loss.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, still nursing an outside chance, humbled the Giants, 10-0, while the Cardinals defeated the Cubs, 2-1, and Rookie Jack Sanford of the Phillies beat the Pirates, 4-3, for his seventeenth triumph.

Kansas City dimmed the White Sox's flickering pennant hopes a bit more over in the American League when Alex Kellner stopped Chicago, 3-1. Boston rolled over Baltimore, 8-1, Cleveland scored a 10-inning 6-5 victory over Detroit, and Washington stopped the Yankees, 4-2.

Don Drysdale of the Dodgers defeated the Giants for the seventh time in two seasons when he stopped them on three hits. Charley Neal got the Brooks off to a three-run jump when he homered with two on off Ruben Gomez in the second inning. Gil Hodges and Carl Furillo added homers for Brooklyn.

Kellner struck out eight White Sox batters and yielded only six hits to beat Bob Keegan for his sixth victory. The Athletics gave Kellner enough margin when they scored two runs in the third inning, Vic Power doubling home the first run and scoring himself on Gus Zernial's single. It was the White Sox's fourth straight setback and left them 6½ games behind the Yankees.

Bob Porterfield of the Red Sox pitched a six-hitter over the Orioles and was aided to his fourth victory by Jackie Jensen's two-run homer. Ted Williams, celebrating his thirty-ninth birthday, managed only one hit in five trips and his batting average dipped to .337, one point higher than Mickey Mantle's.

Mantle collected his thirty-fourth homer and two singles but they weren't enough to keep Bobby Shantz from suffering his fourth setback. The Senators routed Shantz with a three-run rally in the fifth that featured a single and doubles by Milt Bolling, Rocky Bridges and Eddie Yost. Southpaw Chuck Stobbs notched his seventh victory with relief help from Bud Byerly.

Remember? 5...15...25 YEARS AGO

1952—Duane Pillette of the Browns beat Detroit on a two-hitter here, 2 to 1. . . . Peanuts Lowrey, Red Schoendienst, Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter socked successive doubles, tying a National League record as the Cards broke a six-game losing streak, 12-2, at Pittsburgh.

1942—Hard hitting by Third Baseman Gene Mauch paced the Los Angeles Sunrise team to a 13-6 victory over Stockhams in the western finals of the junior American League tourney at Hastings, Nebr.

1932—Wes Ferrell, a 20-game winner for the fourth straight year, was suspended for 10 days by Cleveland Manager Roger Peckinpaugh. The charge of insubordination cost Ferrell about $1500. Wes had rebelled when Peckinpaugh ordered him off the mound in the first inning against Boston.

Hec Sanabria Hurt in Spill At Fairmount

Hector Sanabria of Cuba, who with Rafael Sanabria forms Fairmount Park's brother riding combination, is nursing multiple contusions of the body as a result of being thrown by Entertain during the running of the first race last night.

After Entertain, a three-year-old filly, had traveled about half a furlong she bumped into the railing and tossed Sanabria. Mr. Night won the race and refunded $4.60.

Sanabria, suffering from arm, rib and back bruises, will report to Dr. E. F. Curran, track physician, today for X-rays.

Wichita Swimmers Win Webster Meet

Richard Quick of the Wichita Swim Club, winning three events, turned in the most spectacular individual performance in the two-day swimming and diving meet at the Webster Groves pool last night. Quick, 14-years-old, swam the 100-yard free style in 58.1, better time than the older age group winner.

Quick also won the 100-yd. breast stroke and the 100-yd. butterfly events. Another triple winner was Miss Midge Walters, also of the Wichita club. She finished first in the 100-yd. breast, the 100-yd. backstroke and the 100-yd. butterfly.

Wichita took the team trophy in a meet in which more than 500 swimmers competed. Team scores were: Wichita 377½; Shaw Park 252½; Webster Groves 251; Ladue 123; Missouri A.C. 113; Y.M.H.A. 87; Carondelet Y.M.C.A. 87.

Dupas Defeats New Yorker in 10-Round Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Aug. 31 (AP)—Ralph Dupas and Johnny Busso, two ranking lightweights, pounded each other savagely for 10 rounds last night and each said at the finish he wanted to fight again—Dupas for the championship and Busso to get revenge for losing a close decision.

Dupas, native of New Orleans, ranks near the top among lightweights and wants a crack at the crown now worn by Joe Brown, a fellow townsman.

Busso, a tough New Yorker, apparently was as strong at the finish as he was when he stepped into the ring. He stood dejectedly when the decision was announced and his handlers immediately announced he wanted to fight Dupas again—in Madison Square Garden.

Dupas scored with solid body blows, but Busso took everything the stocky 21-year-old boxer sent his way and kept wading in, firing lefts and rights to the head. There were no knockdowns but each rocked the other with lightning blasts to the jaw.

The fight, televised to a nationwide audience, drew 2105 cash customers, who paid a gross gate of $4451. Dupas weighed 140½ and Busso 141¾ pounds.

Shot in Chase

stumbled and fell in Thirty-seventh street, but fought the officers when they seized him. He was subdued and taken to the hospital. The object he had taken from his pocket was a ring of keys.

Papers in the wounded man's possession led authorities to communicate with his brother, Robert Reid, in Kansas City. Robert arrived in East St. Louis today and told reporters his brother was in a mental institution in 1952, receiving shock treatments. He said Howard left Kansas City Thursday, explaining he wanted to "get out."

Robert Reid visited his brother at the hospital, later quoting Howard as saying he did not recall yesterday's events. Howard, who is divorced, owns two flats in Kansas City, Robert Reid said.

A warrant charging attempted rape was issued against Howard Reid by Justice of the Peace William Isselhardt of Belleville. The intended victim of the attack was treated at St. Mary's Hospital for contusions and shock.

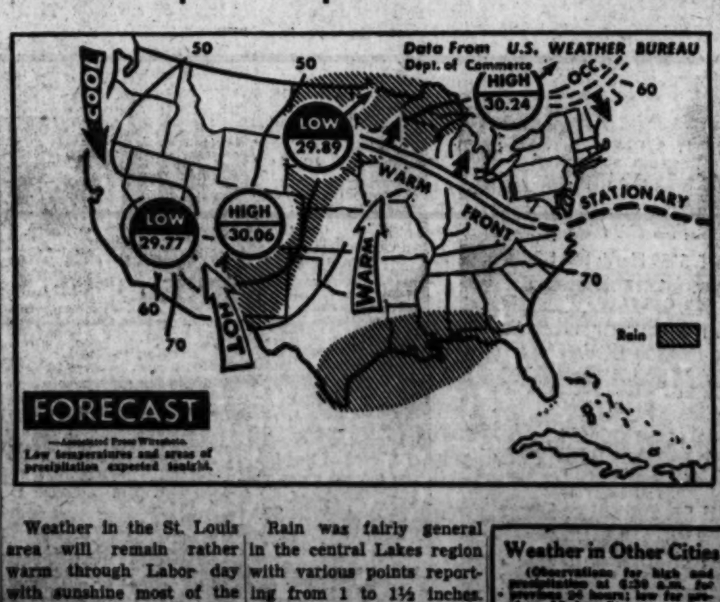
Warm Spell Expected to Continue



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Weather in the St. Louis area will remain rather warm through Labor day with sunshine most of the time, the Weather Bureau reported today.

High temperatures in the country yesterday ranged from 102 degrees at Presidio, Tex., to 60 degrees at Tatoosh Island, Wash. In Missouri, high temperatures ranged from 91 at Kirksville to 97 at Butler and Kansas City. Low temperatures throughout the country ranged from 32 at Bryce Canyon, Utah, to 81 at Key West. The lowest temperature in Missouri was 63 at Farmington.

Rain was fairly general in the central Lakes region with various points reporting from 1 to 1½ inches. Rain also was general in the Gulf states with New Orleans reporting 2.26 inches.

Scattered showers and thundershowers are expected tonight on the northern and western Gulf coast and the area from New Mexico to the northeastern plains and eastward to the northwestern lakes region with rain in northern Montana and North Dakota. Fair to partly cloudy weather is forecast for other regions of the country with fog along the Pacific coast.

RECORD IN GIRARD CASE IS CRITICIZED BY SENATE GROUP

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (UP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee criticized the Administration yesterday for agreeing to let Japan try soldier William S. Girard but said the status-of-forces agreements regulating such matters generally were working satisfactorily.

The committee noted that a United States-Japanese agreement covering jurisdiction of American service men charged with crimes in Japan specifically provides for diplomatic negotiation.

The committee approved a subcommittee report which said:

"It is the subcomittee's view . . . with respect to the operation of the (United States-Japanese) agreement that greater consideration should have been given in the executive branch to referring the Girard matter to diplomatic channels."

The report added however, that the status-of-forces agreements "have not adversely affected . . . the morale and discipline of our forces nor have they had a detrimental effect on the accomplishment of our military missions in the various countries."

TV SPEAKERS URGE CHARTER REFORMS

Budget direction, civil service administration, traffic control and departmental reorganization are among the fields in which charter reform is essential to the city's welfare, three former members of the charter board of freeholders said last night.

The speakers on the Community Forum program of educational television station KETC (Channel 9), were John F. X. Callahan, an attorney; Mel H. Krah, former alderman, and William A. Webb, executive secretary of the Central Trades and Labor Union.

Taking the other side on the panel was George W. Curran, attorney and district director of the National Federation of Independent Businesses, who declared the present 1914 charter didn't need reform in any field.

Callahan and Krah were all-out supporters of the charter proposal defeated by voters in the special election Aug. 6. Webb opposed it largely because of the 7-7-1 plan for election of aldermen and refusal of the freeholder board to include certain provisions recommended by organized labor.

On last night's program the former freeholders voiced the views they expressed during the board's one-year study of the city government. Krah favored placing of budget direction under the Mayor, Callahan reorganization of the present Department of Public Welfare and Webb providing for a labor representative on the Civil Service Commission.

Other fields where revision is indicated, it was brought out, were in the licensing of businesses, removal of ceilings on salaries of city officials and giving charter status to the Airport Commission.

MAN STABBED TO DEATH, FELLOW ROOMER IS HELD

Arthur L. Loftin, a laborer, was stabbed to death early today following a dispute with another occupant of a rooming house at 3145 Laclede avenue.

Police held Robert L. Jones, who was quoted as saying he obtained a kitchen knife and stabbed Loftin in the chest after the latter told Mrs. Jones that Jones had been out with another woman. Jones fled from the house and was arrested on the street a short time later.

Loftin, 34 years old, was pronounced dead at City Hospital.

The Bridge Deck

By Florence Osborn

THE second annual national commercial teams-of-four, held recently in Pittsburgh at the summer tournament of the American Contract Bridge League, was won by the Equitable Life Assurance Co. The players were Arthur R. Auer, of Lindenhurst, L.I.; James M. Kappos, of New York; Albert F. Snyder, of Wantagh, L.I., and Joseph E. Plaxico, of Baldwin, L.I.

The three-session championship was open to any four or five members of a commercial or industrial organization, and it drew 26 teams. To form a team, the players did not have to be from the same city, but they all had to be connected with the same organization.

The Prudential Insurance Co. team was runner-up and Chrysler Corp. tied with another team from Equitable for third place. New York Life was fifth, another Prudential entry was sixth and DuPont and Owens Fibreglass tied for seventh place. Westinghouse Electric placed ninth.

One of the decisive hands from the championship is shown today in which the Equitable Life players won a board from the Prudential team by bidding six spades and making seven by a squeeze. When the Prudential players held the North-South cards, they got to six no-trump and went down.

North dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

South's two-club call was the Stayman convention, asking for a major suit, and North's three-club response indicated both. Thus South in bidding six spades was confident of finding partner with the suit.

Against six spades West opened a trump and declarer won with his queen. Declarer could count 12 tricks by trumping two hearts in his hand, and 13 could be taken if the club jack fell. If this failed, a possible squeeze for the last trick could be developed on the hand that held the high diamonds and the jack of clubs. The squeeze play worked on West.

At trick two South played a heart to the ace and trumped a heart. He entered the board with a club to the queen and trumped a second heart. Next he played three more rounds of trumps, discarding two diamonds from the South hand. In order to guard the club jack West had also to throw two diamonds. Now declarer ran his ace, king of clubs, discarding the heart jack from North, to see if the club jack would fall. When it did not, he played the ace of diamonds, picked up West's queen on his next play and the nine of diamonds in dummy was good for the last trick, declarer making six spades and one over.

Orange Salad With Lime Dressing

Ingredients: Four seedless oranges, romaine, five tablespoons olive oil, juice of one medium-sized lime (two tablespoons), one-fourth teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon honey.

Method: Cut peel from oranges with sharp knife so no white membrane remains; slice into thin rounds. If whole head of romaine is available, use the inner small yellow leaves and some of the green leaves surrounding the heart; the rest of the romaine can of course be refrigerated and used another time. Arrange romaine and orange slices on four individual salad plates. Put olive oil, lime juice, salt, paprika and honey in a small jar with a screw top; shake thoroughly; spoon over salads. Makes four servings.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

A LETTER about the history of the British Isles has come to me from Mrs. Thomas Keogh. She writes, in part:

"I thank you for the information which you sent me about Ireland and Scotland, but I still am searching through old histories for the reason that the name of 'Scotia' was given up by Ireland."

* * *

IN TIMES long past, tribesmen known as Scots lived in Ireland. A portion of the island was called "Scotia" because it contained the Scots.

About 10 and a half centuries ago, most of the Scots left Ireland and went over to Scotland. Their new home, at that time, was known as Caledonia.

The Scots from Ireland settled chiefly in the Argyll area. To the east of them was Pictland, the home of the Picts.

Other settlers in the northern end of Britain were tribesmen known as Angles, who had crossed the North sea and had settled in both ends of the island. Still others were Britons; their ancestors had lived in Britain before the Picts, Scots or Angles got there.

* * *

DURING the few hundred years after the Scots reached northern Britain, many Norsemen came. They, also, settled down.

The Scots seemed to stand above the other elements in the population, and the name of Caledonia was changed. It became Scotland.

Meanwhile the Scots had become people of the past in Ireland. During the Middle Ages Ireland had areas with many names, including O'Brien, O'Kelly, O'Neill, Ulster and O'Donnell. The towns included Dublin, Cork, Limerick, Galway and Kilkenny.

A movement of Scots back to Ireland took place in the seventeenth century. They settled in northern Ireland.
